U.S. Pauses To Honor War Dead

It Started 100 Years Ago

By The Associated Press

One sad spring day, 100 years ago, a small group of women at Columbus, Miss., went to a new cemetery and scattered flowers on graves of Confederate soldiers. They found two Union graves and decorated them, too.

Out of that act of impartial devotion to Americans fallen in battle grew a national tradition, Memorial Day.

It is observed today, in tribute to all of the country's war dead, the more than a million fighting men who have died in wartime military service since the birth of the nation.

On city streets, at monuments and in cemeteries there will be ceremonies, parades, wreath layings, speeches, and gunfire salutes to the departed warriors.

To many people the occasion also is the start of a day from work, and the customary surge of travel was on, by bus, train, and plane for long weekend visits and outings.

But a serious note of gratitude and honor to those killed in service of the country set the theme for the day.

At Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C., the traditional presidential wreath is placed on the Tomb of the Unknowns at 11 a.m. in nationally televised ceremonies.

Similar observances are held elsewhere.

It all started when the Southern women in 1863 sprinkled spring blooms on the newly filled graves of men fallen in the Civil War.

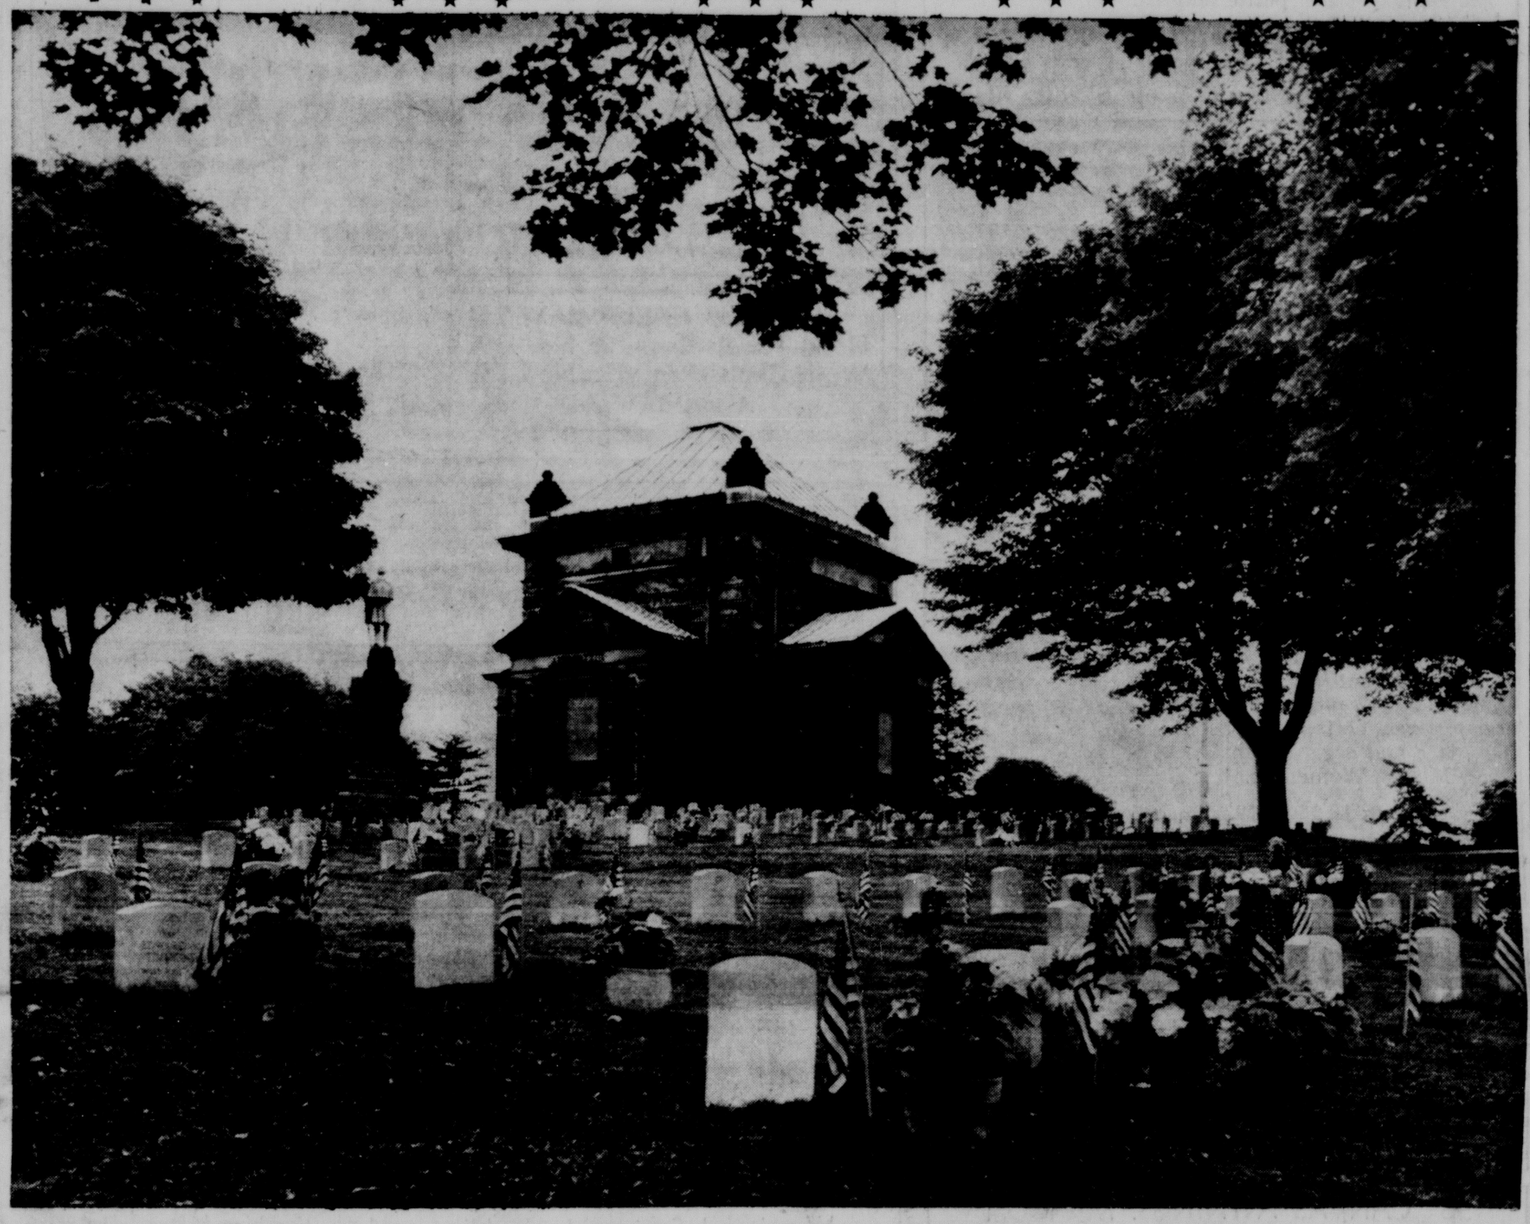

Most of the dead at the Columbus, Miss., cemetery had been brought there from the Battle of Shiloh, Tenn. The little band of women, led by Miss Matt Morton, offered their tokens of respect to victims on both sides.

A few years later decorations were laid on Confederate graves at Columbus, Ga. The custom spread over the South.

In 1868 Gen. John A. Logan, then commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order for the "strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

From that time on the observance became a national one, commemorating the deaths of all those killed in all the country's wars.

At the ceremonies in Arlington National Cemetery, President Kennedy will lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknowns. He will be accompanied by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who will address the gathering. The President does not plan to speak.

New Jobs Bill Approved By Ohio's Senate

Governor's Signature Now Waited

'Speakers' Rule' Passed By House, Sent To Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Senate passed the much-rewritten development bill—aimed at encouraging industry and creating new jobs in Ohio—without a dissenting vote Wednesday.

The bill itself, which the House approved 126-4 April 30, passed 30-0 Wednesday. An emergency clause, which would make it effective as soon as the governor signs it, was adopted 31-0.

In the House, where representatives completed most of their work before the Senate even started, the so-called "speakers' rule" passed 104-25 and moves on to the Senate.

This bill, which has aroused considerable comment and several demonstrations (including a brief one at the statehouse Wednesday), would let state university trustees ban advocates of violent change in the U.S. form of government from speaking on campus. Senators acted on a half-dozen other bills besides the development bill, and only one "no" vote was cast all afternoon. Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Lima, objected to incorporating recent changes in the federal Uniform Code of Military Justice into the Ohio Military Code, but the House approved bill passed anyway, 28-1.

Pepple said later that his World War II experiences as a Navy officer led him to believe injustices exist in the military code.

The development bill, aimed at backing up a campaign pledge of Gov. James A. Rhodes, was reworked considerably in the House before passage there.

Essentially, it is designed to:

1. Create a five-division department of development with an $18,000-a-year director, do away with the existing Department of Industrial and Economic Development, and establish a separate seven-member Development Financing Commission to issue revenue bonds for loans to attract new industry and expand that which already is here.

2. Allow bond issuance without pledging the full faith and credit of the state or any of its political sub - divisions. The bonds would be backed by first and second mortgages on industries to which loans are made, paying interest up to 6 per cent and running as long as 40 years.

As in the House, minority Democrats in the Senate said they would not oppose any proposal to help Ohio's economy and jobless. But they also emphasized they will watch closely to see what happens.

The emergency clause to make it effective immediately is intended to permit a court test of the measure's constitutionality as soon as possible.

The House, after more than 90 minutes of debate, passed and sent to the Senate a hotly controversial bill to give state university trustees complete authority to deny subversives the right to speak on the campuses.

Able To Read, Pray

Pope Improving; Regaining Color

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, showing continued improvement in his struggle for life, has regained some of his color and has been able to read, pray, and meditate, the Vatican reported Wednesday night.

Massive blood transfusions that boosted the pontiff, 81, through his worst crisis Tuesday apparently still were having effect.

Pope John's Rome physician, Dr. Piero Mazzoni, examined the Roman Catholic Church ruler Wednesday evening, then left the Vatican. Other medical attendants stood by.

Despite the reported improvement, the Vatican acknowledged for the first time that the Pope's illness is grave and that he has been through acute crisis.

The mood at the Vatican relaxed some when one report said that Dr. Pietro Valdoni, one of the physicians, told a high prelate that if the Pope continued showing improvement, he might be able to rise from his bed in a week or so to sit in a chair.

The Vatican press office announced late Wednesday night it was closing down until morning.

A Vatican communique published by the newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Pope John had "a night of tranquil repose during which he did not need assistance."

Examination by Dr. Piero Mazzoni of Rome at 10 a.m. showed clear improvement in the Pope,s general condition, it said, and the doctor, who had spent eight straight nights in the Vatican palace, left for the rest of the day.

The communique spoke of "acute moments of crisis" and said the Pope had not suffered "any lapses or bewilderment" during them.

-The Vatican radio, in a separate announcement said: "The Pope is ill. His illness is grave."

The Vatican previously had not used the words grave and crisis—not even in the Tuesday communique which described the Pope's illness as a gastric heteroplasia, or abnormal growth, causing hemorrhages. This could be a cancer, a benign tumor or an overgrowth of tissue.

The Vatican press office apparently was moving to give more information on the Pope's condition. It promised three communiques a day.

It was clear that statements of improvement were only relative.

There was no evidence of hope that improvement would be permanent.

Privately, Vatican officials were concerned at what might happen once the effects of blood transfusions wore off. The Pope has not been responding so rapidly to treatment of internal bleeding as he did at first.

L'Osservatore Romano and the Vatican radio said he was taking his illness calmly and courageously.

The paper said the bedridden pontiff passes his days "in serenity, in prayer, in constant abandon in the Lord."

The Pope's nephew, the Rt. Rev. Giovanbattista Roncalli, arrived at the Vatican as an emissary from Pope John's north Italian family.

While prayers were being said around the world for the Pope, the Vatican switchboard continued to receive a flood of calls about the Pope's condition. Some suggested medicines. Others offered names of doctors they said had treated relatives of theirs for ailments similar to the Pope's.

No Right To Sue

Ruling Hits U. S. In Alabama Case

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge ruled Wednesday that the Justice Department does not have the right to sue for desegregation of two Alabama school systems.

U.S. Dist. Judge H. Hobart Grooms dismissed a suit against the Huntsville City and Madison County School Boards and said the state's pupil-placement law would apply in the case.

The Justice Department sought an injunction against racial segregation in the schools in federally impacted areas. The action contended that the civil rights of children of federal employes and military personnel are violated by a segregated school system.

"Except in the field of voting rights," Grooms said, "the Congress has granted the government no authority to bring such a suit as this. In fact, it has refused to grant such permission."

A similiar suit dismissed in Mississippi by Judge Sidney Mize May 16 was used as a precedent by Grooms. Another such action filed against the Mobile (Ala.) County school system has not yet reached a hearing.

In Washington a Justice Department spokesman said that Wednesday's ruling and the Mississippi case would be appealed to a higher court.

The Huntsville and Madison County schools receive federal funds because of the location there of Redstone Arsenal, the Marshall Space Flight Center, and other federal installations.

Grooms said that the act which provides for the application of federal funds for schools say that assurance must be given that school facilities would be available in accordance with the laws of the state in which the school district is located.

In other racial developments:

Police arrested 11 biracial picketers as they marched in downtown Jackson, Miss., protesting racial practices in stores. Meanwhile, classes in sit-in techniques emphasizing nonviolence were held at Jackson headquarters of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A resolution endorsing Gov. George C. Wallace's promised defiance of a court order to integrate the University of Alabama passed the State Senate, with an appeal to the people to prevent mob violence. A compromise agreement broke up a Senate filibuster on the issue.

President Kennedy has asked scores of business executives to meet with him next Tuesday to give "serious and immediate attention" to the issue of desegregating public facilities in the South.

One of Atlanta's last official race barriers was ordered removed June 12 when public swimming pools will be desegregated.

In Tuscaloosa, Ala., more than 200 residents signed a petition asking Gov. Wallace not to interfere with the registration of a Negro June 10 at the University of Alabama.

The City Council of San Antonio, Tex., voted unanimously to appoint a committee of businessmen to work toward integration of all privately owned businesses serving the public.

Violence flared again at Philadelphia between police and pickets as Negroes sought unsuccessfully to prevent workmen from entering a $6-million public school construction site where they allege job discrimination. Six persons were injured in a scuffle.

About 300 Negroes, including Olympic sprint star Wilma Rudolph, sought unsuccessfully to be served at a drive-in restaurant in Clarksville, Tenn.

Court Clears Nominee For Weirton Vote

Lami Reinstated To Ballot For Council If City Clerk Acts

CHARLESTON — The Supreme Court Wednesday cleared the way, 3-2, for reinstatement of Clifford Lami as a candidate for election to Weirton's City Council — provided the city clerk puts him on the ballot for Tuesday's election.

The court majority granted Lami review of an order by Hancock County Circuit Judge James G. McClure which held he was not eligible to seek election from the city's First Ward.

Lami ran second in a May 7 primary to nominate two council candidates for the ward.

Norman D. Orwasky, who ran third, brought proceedings to remove Lami as a candidate under certain residency provisions in the Weirton charter.

McClure's order, however, which ruled Lami ineligible did not put Orwasky on the ballot.

In petitioning the Supreme Court, Lami challenged the constitutionality of the charter provision requiring that candidates for mayor or Council must be residents of the city for five years.

Lami insisted that the proviso was unreasonable to the extent of being unconstitutional. He moved into Weirton the last time Dec. 9, 1960, but had insisted that he lived in the city previously from 1950 to 1954.

Lami raised the question as to whether the charter specifically requires residence for five consecutive years before an election.

Judges Chauncey H. Browning and Harlan M. Calhoun noted that they would refuse the writ of error the court granted Lami by a majority vote.

Court attaches said the effect of the court action was to stay the McClure decision, and that it now is up to the Weirton city clerk as to whether Lami's name goes back on the ballot.

Didn't Fire On Crew

U. S. Raps Cuba Charge On Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba charged Wednesday that a U.S. plane had fired on a Soviet-Cuban crew drilling for oil Sunday off the island's north coast. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the accusation is "simply not true."

This was backed up by a Navy spokesman who reported it is true that a Navy plane was on routine duty "over the high seas north of Cuba on Sunday." But he said the plane did not fly over Cay Frances, as the Cubans charge, "nor did it fire at any time during its patrol mission."

In the latest in a long series of charges of aggression hurled by Havana against the United States, the Armed Forces Ministry said a twin-engine "P5B of the North American Navy with number 147-320" had swooped low over Cay Frances. The plane was accused of firing bursts from "a thick-caliber machine gun" at the drilling crew.

"After the aggression, the plane flew around the area, occasionally at an altitude of 200 meters," the communique said.

It did not mention any casualties in connection with the charge.

At his news conference Wednesday, Rusk denied the charge and commented that Navy patrol planes do not have machine guns.

The Navy spokesman confirmed this but did not say whether it carried rockets or other armament.

He declared, however: "The Cuban Armed Forces Ministry statement, as reported, is completely unfounded."

The Navy spokesman said the pilot had reported "sighting splashes apparently from gunfire in the vicinity of Cay Frances" but did not believe this gunfire was directed at his plane.

He noted that pilots of U.S. military aircraft are under instructions to refrain from firing unless fired upon.

Cay Frances is 220 miles north of Havana. It is one of several islets off Cuba's north coast where Soviet oil crews are drilling.

There have been several accusations swapped by Cuba and the United States since the rocket attack in February by Cuba-based MIG planes on a disabled American shrimp boat, which aroused a storm of protest in this country.

In Memory Of All Who Were Loved

The scene in countless cemeteries throughout the length and breadth of American each Memorial Day is a credit to the highest aspirations of the American dream.

The visits we pay to the graves of all who were loved are our tribute to our heritage and our hopes.

Our respect for all who rest with honor in the city of the dead is our recognition of debt to those who passed this way before our time.

IT IS INCIDENTAL this many years afterward that Memorial Day started with an order by a general of the Civil War era.

It is incidental, too, that Memorial Day has been concerned, as it properly should have been concerned, with respect for those who died in wartime.

But they are only part of the lengthening list of those whose lives have given us something precious to remember.

In this still young nation we have not learned what it is like to cherish a remote past; our history is still too short.

But we are learning how it feels to stand in the presence of memories going back to the beginning of our nation. Our cemeteries remind us of founders who fought in the Revolution.

They are filled with the resting places of ancestors who fought to save the Union.

They are filling with the graves of men who fought in both world wars.

And they are full of memories of all the others who once were near and dear to us and others like us.

WE ARE grateful to all of them on Memorial Day. Our hearts are full for everything they still mean to us.

May others feel this way about us when our time, too, comes to live in memory.

Wait For The Next Move

A British buzz-saw reaction followed news of the Ottawa plan for an Atlantic Alliance nuclear force.

The British reaction differed from the West German reaction only in its violence. The West Germans, also wasted no time in telling the United States what it would have to do before they would share its nuclear armament.

The outline of the idea for sharing was a U.S. proposal for a Polaris missile surface fleet manned by mixed forces — Britons, Germans, Turks, Americans and so on.

The presumed merit of the idea is that it would give members of the Atlantic Alliance a sense of sharing nuclear responsibility with the United States. But in the coldly realistic manner of U.S. allies, the British are looking the "gift horse" in the mouth.

THEY ARE reported to be assembling a yard-long list of questions they want answered before they reach any agreement with the United States on a Polaris fleet.

It is to be understood from this that the Kennedy administration bulled through something at Ottawa that had not been discussed in advance with Britain.

Is it conceivable that in an affair of this magnitude the U.S. government laid its groundwork so haphazardly it risked a rebuff, instead of securing an acceptance?

Are international relations of this magnitude being handled like the agenda of a high school club, without knowing in advance that no offer will be made without a guarantee of acceptance?

MANY AMERICANS are unable to see the logic of forcing membership in the nuclear club on members who cannot afford the dues.

When it turns out they aren't even sure they want to belong to the club in the first place, the alternative would seem to be to back off and wait for them to make the next move, if any.

Looking Ahead

Any discussion of industrial development invariably brings out a point on which we have hammered for some time — that the program is one of an area rather than of a community nature.

Certainly, we all want East Liverpool itself to prosper. But, at the same time, we realize that our hopes also are linked closely with the development of neighboring communities.

Each meeting such as that sponsored Tuesday night by the Chamber of Commerce is another step toward proper planning for a brighter and more prosperous future.

Jim Farley, At 75

"A sincere conviction in your own cause (whether you are selling Coca-Cola, building materials, motor trucks or a candidate)," James A. Farley once wrote, "leads you to value each person you talk to, and that value helps identify him to you."

Farley was explaining his peculiar and famous knack of remembering names.

Jim Farley in politics was a salesman. He knew his product and his market with encyclopedic thoroughness.

His prediction in 1936 that Alf Landon would carry only Maine and Vermont was based on a sound network of political intelligence.

Now observing his 75th birthday anniversary (May 30), Jim Farley is a kind of Democratic right bower. He has no political organization as such, but his political influence is consequential. He shuns the role of older statesman, preferring like that other Democratic septuagenarian, Harry S. Truman, the honest title of "politician."

A backer of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson at Los Angeles, Farley aimed most of his political weaponry in 1960 at Adlai E. Stevenson, saying, that to send Stevenson to negotiate with Khrushchev would be like sending "the cabbage patch to the goat." He warned against a Kennedy stampede.

But after the election found him defending John F. Kennedy's victory, saying anybody questioning the president-elect's mandate because of the narrow margin was "perilously close to irresponsible mischief-making."

Mr. Farley served the New Deal without mental reservation, and has supported the Fair Deal and the New Frontier.

His retirement from active politics brought fortune to F.D.R.'s postmaster general and grand vizier as chairman of the board of Coca-Cola Export Co. and honorary degrees and decorations from foreign governments.

Under Way

That steps are under way to launch a beautification along the river front is good news.

The Board of Thompson Park Commissioners has lost little time in getting things rolling in the proper direction since being given jurisdiction over river-side property which the city owns.

With the Junior Chamber of Commerce and city officials joining in the discussion, action on a much - needed brightening program has gotten away from home plate.

Long - needed improvements can't come too soon.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: As long as you've gone to the trouble of asking me, I'll tell you why we are so anxious about getting to the moon.

Our moon-go is the last word in escapism.

We haven't psycholanalyzed ourselves on this, but we don't need to. It's as plain as $20 billion on the debit side of the ledger.

Americans and Russians, striving to beat each other in ideological competition, have found a contest that can be dissocated from their chronic failures.

Russians never have been able to raise enough to eat. This is one of their chronic failures. They would be fools to try to establish their superiority in that direction.

We never have furnished enough jobs to go around, except in wartime when we took millions of our best men out of production and put them in uniforms, so we are shy of tackling that.

But going to the moon is a clean slate. It's better than climbing Mt. Everest, because that has been done before. There are no insidious comparisons to be made in the first moon-go, provided we are first.

That's another angle.

We are fighting a cold war, right? It's the same as fighting a hot war, only not so hot, right?

All right, how did we win the last hot war? We beat the opposition with industrial know-how. We wore him down with the sheer weight of our production.

That is what we aim to do to Russia in the moon-go — wear it down.

It was Russia's idea to mess around with Sputniks, Luniks and Vostovs, not ours. We weren't starting to begin to commence to try to conquer space when they scared us with Sputnik I away back there in October 1957.

They declared cold war on us, that's what it amounted to. They served formal notice that they were giving up the effort to outdo us on earth and were going to project the ideological competition into outer space.

We have taken them up. Once challenged, we had no choice, when it comes to that. We could no more surrender in a cold war than we could in a hot one.

We will carry on this contest of escapism together, we and the Russians. It will take out minds off our chronic troubles, which is the standard consequence of all international contests.

The Russians will have to eat more cabbage and less meat and we may have to admit the South won the Civil War, as the "gemmum" down there have been saying it would, but for comfort we can marvel at the money spent on moon-go.

There may be blood spilled in U.S. street riots and lives wasted in prison camps in Siberia, but by golly we're on our way to the nearest heavenly body. It will be like old-time religions that buttered over hell on earth with a slick promise of bliss in the hereafter.

Escapism de luxe.

That's moon-go. You asked me what I thought and I'm telling you. I only hope to be around long enough to see us get there first, which means our competitors will have gone broke in the attempt. It's unthinkable, of course, that we could go broke. Or is it?

Your Aunt Effie joins me in renewed regards for your health and happiness.

The Image Of America Abroad

By David Lawrence

There's worry about the "image" of America being created abroad nowadays. Secretary of State Dean Rusk attributes it to the controversy over racial discrimination.

But Mr. Rusk doesn't tell the whole story — that part which is conveniently overlooked by almost everybody because it's easier to do so than face the facts. The facts are that not a single law has ever been passed by Congress requiring desegregation or integration of public schools, restaurants or hotels, and not a single law has been adopted prohibiting discrimination in employment.

America's racial controversy today points up another omission in the field of law. The Supreme Court of the United States, consisting of nine men, is not a legislature. It cannot lawfully substitute its will for that of Congress. But it has done so. Also, two presidents of the United States—in 1957 and 1962, respectively—have used federal troops to secure the enforcement of court orders relating to school integration but no laws covering the subject have been passed by Congress. This creates abroad an "image" of dictatorship tactics.

The "14th Amendment" itself makes no mention of schools or private or public employment but declares all citizens have a right to the "equal protection" of the laws.

This same amendment says explicitly that Congress is given the power to pass laws to enforce the provisions of the article. No laws dealing with desegregation in the schools have ever been passed by Congress.

THE TRUTH is beginning to be recognized at last by some leaders in Congress who, this very month, have introduced bills setting forth what racial discrimination covers and what shall be prohibited.

The United States has always been portrayed abroad as a free republic.

America, it has been emphasized, has a government of laws—not of men but foreign observers have noted that an oligarchy of nine men—who hold office for life—has attempted to write the laws.

Thoughtful students of democratic government abroad have been amazed at this departure from the very words of the Constitution. This tends to hurt the "image" of the United States as supposedly a free republic governed by a written constitution.

Commendable efforts have been made recently by local communities in different parts of the United States to try to settle the racial question by moral suasion.

These efforts were making progress when demonstrations heralded as non-violent stirred up racial violence.

The episodes have not been confined to the South. They have spread to all parts of the United States. Riots and other disturbances are frequent.

Every day the press dispatches tell the world that some Americans are relying on a form of mob rule to convince citizens who disagree with all this that they had better give in or their businesses will be ruined.

THREATS by the President of the United States to use troops to discipline a state whose police failed to catch some citizens who maliciously bombed a Negro leader's home in the middle of the night are also publicized abroad. But little attention is given to the fact that various setments of the population have become inflamed and have decided —as did the lynch mobs of old—to take the law into their own hands because they say they cannot wait patiently for the law to function in its normal way.

"We have waited long enough" now is the battle cry of some Negro leaders. White leaders then stiffen their resistance and announce that they will not obey court orders that are not based on laws passed by Congress.

Has America learned anything in 100 years about how to deal with the race problem? In the three years after the war between the States ended in 1865, a faction in Congress arbitrarily deprived several states of their seats in both houses of Congress, imposed military rule on the South, and sent in troops with bayonets to compel state legislatures to ratify the 14th Amendment as the price of membership in the federal union.

It was an example of lawlessness about which most Americans prefer not to read, though the facts are indelibly written in history books.

THE WAY OUT of all this is to follow the procedure stipulated in the Constitution—to submit in a lawful manner a new 14th Amendment which will specify school integration and anything else that two thirds of both houses of Congress and the majority of the people in three fourths of the states of the Union want to declare as the law of the land.

Then there will be ample power for Congress to stipulate by statute just what shall be done about discrimination in public or private activities.

It's never too late to right a wrong—even one committed 100 years ago.

If, as is widely assumed, an overwhelming majority of the American people would support such an amendment to the Constitution, this process need not take long. The 21st Amendment repealing prohibition, for example, was adopted in only nine months.

The image of America abroad would then truly be portrayed as a government of laws — not of men.

Today In History

Today is Memorial Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1868, Memorial Day was formally observed for the first time on an order issued by General John Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic—an organization of Union veterans of the Civil War. With the exception of some southern states, most of the nation now observes Memorial Day to honor the nation's dead of all wars.

On this date:

In 1431, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake.

In 1778, death came to the French historian and philosopher, Voltaire.

Today's birthdays:

Sculptor Alexander Archipenko is 76. Orchestra leader Benny Goodman is 54.

Memorial Day, 1963

By John N. Adams

A Golden Key To Understanding

In keeping with annual custom, Americans this Memorial Day will visit the resting places of those who served their country in uniform and those who gave their lives in battle.

But today it is a much different observance from that May 30, 1868, when Gen. John Alexander Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued the famous General Order No. 11 calling on the nation to honor the memory of those soldiers in the Army of the North by "strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of those x x x x x whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard of the land."

On this Memorial Day we honor the heroes of all wars in which this country participated, not only the comrades of the GAR. These soldier dead now number more than 2,400,000.

TO WHAT PURPOSE do we dedicate the day to their memory?

And what of the living-dead who have no resting place and know no loved ones?

Their fate is worse than death—oblivious to any honors that may be accorded them.

After World War I, an article entitled "A Retrospect of the War," by J. L. Garvin, appeared in The London Observer.

Garvin wrote: "What shall it profit to have seen the whole world and forget—to have entered into all passion and wisdom only to lose both the golden and the iron keys to the things which have been?

"They are the life of our life. Unless we grasp both keys now we shall never know the mind's true return to the secrets of its strength; we shall forfeit that which is part of the best force and death of existence.

"The war seems to destroy many memories of what went before it. The absorption of the future will soon tend to destroy many memories of the war. For the sake of the future itself let us give at least this day to recollection."

WHAT GARVIN is saying is there is more than just mental retentitiveness to be prized. There is a moral and imaginative key to be seized. . . the golden key which can turn the meaning and color of past experiences into the "very stuff and hue of character."

It is a truth just as applicable to our age in which we experience more in a day that those in any age before us experienced in a lifetime.

Emotions, efforts and ordeals, tragedies and achievements, catastrophes and triumphs, convulsions of mankind and changes of the world are crowded into days where once they stretched over generations or centuries.

We are living in an age more wonderful and more terrible than any in history.

We have created a means for perpetuation or destruction of mankind. We have conquered outer space but we have been unable to resolve our internal problems.

IN CONCLUDING his retrospect, Garvin wrote:

"Wars shall perish but while the world lasts never shall die the influence of these examples of heroism and energy, of sacrifice and fortitude, of long, stark endurance, tested unto the darkest hour and, when found faithful, then crowned by the radiance of achievement.

"From this the unceasing generations will draw strength for duties far other than that dread but sacred task which has been fulfilled through our hands. It is done."

It is an ennobling ideal and comforting thought for Memorial Day 1963.

Not By Bread Alone

By Raymond Moley

The wheat plebiscite should reveal in plain statistics to the Kennedy brothers that their general political strategy grossly misunderstands the character and spirit of the American people.

With their heads clear and with the cold facts before them, the farmers deliberately chose a course which, temporarily at least, means more arduous planning and less return for their product.

Not only did they reject the administration's program itself, but they registered their scorn and contempt for the vast propaganda effort directed at them by the administration and with the taxpayers' money.

The Kennedy-Freeman appeal asked them whether they would rather have $2 than $1. They answered, "A dollar, if necessary, with fredeom." The crass materialism of the appeal was apparently regarded as an affront to the pride and independence of Americans.

This remarkable vote has a lesson for all of us.

POLITICIANS for a long time have been operating according to what in high-brow circles is called economic determinism. For half a century it has dominated our history textbooks, our political literature, and the strategy of our political campaigns.

This philosophy, which was an adaptation of what Karl Marx wrote, would have us believe that the Constitution of the United States was written by a lot of people who wanted only to protect their property and that the Civil War was a conflict of two rival economic systems. It would also have us believe that political predictions can be based upon a calculation of voters' economic wants and necessities.

In 1952, noting that the Democratic campaign slogan was "You never had it so good," I wrote this:

"People are moved by many impulses other than those with roots in their stomachs and pocketbooks. Human beings are endowed with sentiments of idealism, loyalty and pride associated with their homes, their families, their communities, their friends, their ancestry, traditions, religion and their nation.

"These sentiments find expression in songs, stories, bits of folklore, associations and memories. These fill a large part of life. To evoke them is to give pleasure and to enrich.

"They make hardships endurable, mistakes tolerable, inconsistency understandable, and even failure bearable. Within them is the heart of political conservatism."

THAT IDEA came back to me when I saw and heard on television John F. Kennedy summing up his campaign in the Chicago Auditorium and the New York Coliseum in November, 1960. Pointing here and there, as if to address this and that special interest, he repeated his promises. He was, in effect, chopping the electorate into little pieces of specific wants.

The candidate mentioned more pay for the unemployed, medical care for the elderly, federal money for schools for the children and free college education for teen-agers, more pay for teachers, new plumbing for five million homes, help with the housewives' budgets, the admission of everybody to public housing "by the stroke of a pen," more income for the farmers, dignity and health for the retired (as if a political government could create dignity), and, finally, the back of his hand to members of Congress who would oppose him.

These melodramatic promises with gestures represented not only gross materialism but reckless disregard of means to their end.

The effect of this is to use on the federal level the methods so long common in Boston municipal life, where the brothers Kennedy learned their politics. There for years under Grandfather Fitzgerald and Michael Curley elections were won by handouts from the city treasury and the seemingly limitless resources of the bosses.

If you would know what is going on in Washington now, read if you have not, and reread if you have, Edwin O'Connor's "The Last Hurrah."

FINALLY, there is the issue of sincerity. After hearing those lush promises, we had a right to raise eyebrows when we heard at the Inauguration, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

On more than one occasion Mr. Kennedy has said or implied that these innumerable domestic programs he has sent to Congress are not really important to him.

The conclusion is inescapable that he prefers them as issues rather than legislative approval.

If they are enacted, they will provide liens on the recipients' gratitude. If they are not enacted, he can blame "reactionary" members of Congress or, in the present instance, the wheat farmers who refused the dole. But the farmers have given their answer. They prefer freedom.

In Memory Of All Who Were Loved

The scene in countless cemeteries throughout the length and breadth of American each Memorial Day is a credit to the highest aspirations of the American dream.

The visits we pay to the graves of all who were loved are our tribute to our heritage and our hopes.

Our respect for all who rest with honor in the city of the dead is our recognition of debt to those who passed this way before our time.

IT IS INCIDENTAL this many years afterward that Memorial Day started with an order by a general of the Civil War era.

It is incidental, too, that Memorial Day has been concerned, as it properly should have been concerned, with respect for those who died in wartime.

But they are only part of the lengthening list of those whose lives have given us something precious to remember.

In this still young nation we have not learned what it is like to cherish a remote past; our history is still too short.

But we are learning how it feels to stand in the presence of memories going back to the beginning of our nation. Our cemeteries remind us of founders who fought in the Revolution.

They are filled with the resting places of ancestors who fought to save the Union.

They are filling with the graves of men who fought in both world wars.

And they are full of memories of all the others who once were near and dear to us and others like us.

WE ARE grateful to all of them on Memorial Day. Our hearts are full for everything they still mean to us.

May others feel this way about us when our time, too, comes to live in memory.

Wait For The Next Move

A British buzz-saw reaction followed news of the Ottawa plan for an Atlantic Alliance nuclear force.

The British reaction differed from the West German reaction only in its violence. The West Germans, also wasted no time in telling the United States what it would have to do before they would share its nuclear armament.

The outline of the idea for sharing was a U.S. proposal for a Polaris missile surface fleet manned by mixed forces — Britons, Germans, Turks, Americans and so on.

The presumed merit of the idea is that it would give members of the Atlantic Alliance a sense of sharing nuclear responsibility with the United States. But in the coldly realistic manner of U.S. allies, the British are looking the "gift horse" in the mouth.

THEY ARE reported to be assembling a yard-long list of questions they want answered before they reach any agreement with the United States on a Polaris fleet.

It is to be understood from this that the Kennedy administration bulled through something at Ottawa that had not been discussed in advance with Britain.

Is it conceivable that in an affair of this magnitude the U.S. government laid its groundwork so haphazardly it risked a rebuff, instead of securing an acceptance?

Are international relations of this magnitude being handled like the agenda of a high school club, without knowing in advance that no offer will be made without a guarantee of acceptance?

MANY AMERICANS are unable to see the logic of forcing membership in the nuclear club on members who cannot afford the dues.

When it turns out they aren't even sure they want to belong to the club in the first place, the alternative would seem to be to back off and wait for them to make the next move, if any.

Looking Ahead

Any discussion of industrial development invariably brings out a point on which we have hammered for some time — that the program is one of an area rather than of a community nature.

Certainly, we all want East Liverpool itself to prosper. But, at the same time, we realize that our hopes also are linked closely with the development of neighboring communities.

Each meeting such as that sponsored Tuesday night by the Chamber of Commerce is another step toward proper planning for a brighter and more prosperous future.

Jim Farley, At 75

"A sincere conviction in your own cause (whether you are selling Coca-Cola, building materials, motor trucks or a candidate)," James A. Farley once wrote, "leads you to value each person you talk to, and that value helps identify him to you."

Farley was explaining his peculiar and famous knack of remembering names.

Jim Farley in politics was a salesman. He knew his product and his market with encyclopedic thoroughness.

His prediction in 1936 that Alf Landon would carry only Maine and Vermont was based on a sound network of political intelligence.

Now observing his 75th birthday anniversary (May 30), Jim Farley is a kind of Democratic right bower. He has no political organization as such, but his political influence is consequential. He shuns the role of older statesman, preferring like that other Democratic septuagenarian, Harry S. Truman, the honest title of "politician."

A backer of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson at Los Angeles, Farley aimed most of his political weaponry in 1960 at Adlai E. Stevenson, saying, that to send Stevenson to negotiate with Khrushchev would be like sending "the cabbage patch to the goat." He warned against a Kennedy stampede.

But after the election found him defending John F. Kennedy's victory, saying anybody questioning the president-elect's mandate because of the narrow margin was "perilously close to irresponsible mischief-making."

Mr. Farley served the New Deal without mental reservation, and has supported the Fair Deal and the New Frontier.

His retirement from active politics brought fortune to F.D.R.'s postmaster general and grand vizier as chairman of the board of Coca-Cola Export Co. and honorary degrees and decorations from foreign governments.

Under Way

That steps are under way to launch a beautification along the river front is good news.

The Board of Thompson Park Commissioners has lost little time in getting things rolling in the proper direction since being given jurisdiction over river-side property which the city owns.

With the Junior Chamber of Commerce and city officials joining in the discussion, action on a much - needed brightening program has gotten away from home plate.

Long - needed improvements can't come too soon.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: As long as you've gone to the trouble of asking me, I'll tell you why we are so anxious about getting to the moon.

Our moon-go is the last word in escapism.

We haven't psycholanalyzed ourselves on this, but we don't need to. It's as plain as $20 billion on the debit side of the ledger.

Americans and Russians, striving to beat each other in ideological competition, have found a contest that can be dissocated from their chronic failures.

Russians never have been able to raise enough to eat. This is one of their chronic failures. They would be fools to try to establish their superiority in that direction.

We never have furnished enough jobs to go around, except in wartime when we took millions of our best men out of production and put them in uniforms, so we are shy of tackling that.

But going to the moon is a clean slate. It's better than climbing Mt. Everest, because that has been done before. There are no insidious comparisons to be made in the first moon-go, provided we are first.

That's another angle.

We are fighting a cold war, right? It's the same as fighting a hot war, only not so hot, right?

All right, how did we win the last hot war? We beat the opposition with industrial know-how. We wore him down with the sheer weight of our production.

That is what we aim to do to Russia in the moon-go — wear it down.

It was Russia's idea to mess around with Sputniks, Luniks and Vostovs, not ours. We weren't starting to begin to commence to try to conquer space when they scared us with Sputnik I away back there in October 1957.

They declared cold war on us, that's what it amounted to. They served formal notice that they were giving up the effort to outdo us on earth and were going to project the ideological competition into outer space.

We have taken them up. Once challenged, we had no choice, when it comes to that. We could no more surrender in a cold war than we could in a hot one.

We will carry on this contest of escapism together, we and the Russians. It will take out minds off our chronic troubles, which is the standard consequence of all international contests.

The Russians will have to eat more cabbage and less meat and we may have to admit the South won the Civil War, as the "gemmum" down there have been saying it would, but for comfort we can marvel at the money spent on moon-go.

There may be blood spilled in U.S. street riots and lives wasted in prison camps in Siberia, but by golly we're on our way to the nearest heavenly body. It will be like old-time religions that buttered over hell on earth with a slick promise of bliss in the hereafter.

Escapism de luxe.

That's moon-go. You asked me what I thought and I'm telling you. I only hope to be around long enough to see us get there first, which means our competitors will have gone broke in the attempt. It's unthinkable, of course, that we could go broke. Or is it?

Your Aunt Effie joins me in renewed regards for your health and happiness.

The Image Of America Abroad

By David Lawrence

There's worry about the "image" of America being created abroad nowadays. Secretary of State Dean Rusk attributes it to the controversy over racial discrimination.

David Lawrence

But Mr. Rusk doesn't tell the whole story — that part which is conveniently overlooked by almost everybody because it's easier to do so than face the facts. The facts are that not a single law has ever been passed by Congress requiring desegregation or integration of public schools, restaurants or hotels, and not a single law has been adopted prohibiting discrimination in employment.

America's racial controversy today points up another omission in the field of law. The Supreme Court of the United States, consisting of nine men, is not a legislature. It cannot lawfully substitute its will for that of Congress. But it has done so. Also, two presidents of the United States—in 1957 and 1962, respectively—have used federal troops to secure the enforcement of court orders relating to school integration but no laws covering the subject have been passed by Congress. This creates abroad an "image" of dictatorship tactics.

The "14th Amendment" itself makes no mention of schools or private or public employment but declares all citizens have a right to the "equal protection" of the laws.

This same amendment says explicitly that Congress is given the power to pass laws to enforce the provisions of the article. No laws dealing with desegregation in the schools have ever been passed by Congress.

THE TRUTH is beginning to be recognized at last by some leaders in Congress who, this very month, have introduced bills setting forth what racial discrimination covers and what shall be prohibited.

The United States has always been portrayed abroad as a free republic.

America, it has been emphasized, has a government of laws—not of men but foreign observers have noted that an oligarchy of nine men—who hold office for life—has attempted to write the laws.

Thoughtful students of democratic government abroad have been amazed at this departure from the very words of the Constitution. This tends to hurt the "image" of the United States as supposedly a free republic governed by a written constitution.

Commendable efforts have been made recently by local communities in different parts of the United States to try to settle the racial question by moral suasion.

These efforts were making progress when demonstrations heralded as non-violent stirred up racial violence.

The episodes have not been confined to the South. They have spread to all parts of the United States. Riots and other disturbances are frequent.

Every day the press dispatches tell the world that some Americans are relying on a form of mob rule to convince citizens who disagree with all this that they had better give in or their businesses will be ruined.

THREATS by the President of the United States to use troops to discipline a state whose police failed to catch some citizens who maliciously bombed a Negro leader's home in the middle of the night are also publicized abroad. But little attention is given to the fact that various setments of the population have become inflamed and have decided —as did the lynch mobs of old— to take the law into their own hands because they say they cannot wait patiently for the law to function in its normal way.

"We have waited long enough" now is the battle cry of some Negro leaders. White leaders then stiffen their resistance and announce that they will not obey court orders that are not based on laws passed by Congress.

Has America learned anything in 100 years about how to deal with the race problem? In the three years after the war between the States ended in 1865, a faction in Congress arbitrarily deprived several states of their seats in both houses of Congress, imposed military rule on the South, and sent in troops with bayonets to compel state legislatures to ratify the 14th Amendment as the price of membership in the federal union.

It was an example of lawlessness about which most Americans prefer not to read, though the facts are indelibly written in history books.

THE WAY OUT of all this is to follow the procedure stipulated in the Constitution—to submit in a lawful manner a new 14th Amendment which will specify school integration and anything else that two thirds of both houses of Congress and the majority of the people in three fourths of the states of the Union want to declare as the law of the land.

Then there will be ample power for Congress to stipulate by statute just what shall be done about discrimination in public or private activities.

It's never too late to right a wrong—even one committed 100 years ago.

If, as is widely assumed, an overwhelming majority of the American people would support such an amendment to the Constitution, this process need not take long. The 21st Amendment repealing prohibition, for example, was adopted in only nine months.

The image of America abroad would then truly be portrayed as a government of laws — not of men.

Today In History

Today is Memorial Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1868, Memorial Day was formally observed for the first time on an order issued by General John Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic—an organization of Union veterans of the Civil War. With the exception of some southern states, most of the nation now observes Memorial Day to honor the nation's dead of all wars.

On this date:

In 1431, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake.

In 1778, death came to the French historian and philosopher, Voltaire.

Today's birthdays:

Sculptor Alexander Archipenko is 76. Orchestra leader Benny Goodman is 54.

Memorial Day, 1963

By John N. Adams

A Golden Key To Understanding

In keeping with annual custom, Americans this Memorial Day will visit the resting places of those who served their country in uniform and those who gave their lives in battle.

But today it is a much different observance from that May 30, 1868, when Gen. John Alexander Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued the famous General Order No. 11 calling on the nation to honor the memory of those soldiers in the Army of the North by "strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of those x x x x x whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard of the land."

On this Memorial Day we honor the heroes of all wars in which this country participated, not only the comrades of the GAR. These soldier dead now number more than 2,400,000.

TO WHAT PURPOSE do we dedicate the day to their memory?

And what of the living-dead who have no resting place and know no loved ones?

Their fate is worse than death—oblivious to any honors that may be accorded them.

After World War I, an article entitled "A Retrospect of the War," by J. L. Garvin, appeared in The London Observer.

Garvin wrote: "What shall it profit to have seen the whole world and forget—to have entered into all passion and wisdom only to lose both the golden and the iron keys to the things which have been?

"They are the life of our life. Unless we grasp both keys now we shall never know the mind's true return to the secrets of its strength; we shall forfeit that which is part of the best force and death of existence.

"The war seems to destroy many memories of what went before it. The absorption of the future will soon tend to destroy many memories of the war. For the sake of the future itself let us give at least this day to recollection."

WHAT GARVIN is saying is there is more than just mental retentitiveness to be prized. There is a moral and imaginative key to be seized. . . the golden key which can turn the meaning and color of past experiences into the "very stuff and hue of character."

It is a truth just as applicable to our age in which we experience more in a day that those in any age before us experienced in a lifetime.

Emotions, efforts and ordeals, tragedies and achievements, catastrophes and triumphs, convulsions of mankind and changes of the world are crowded into days where once they stretched over generations or centuries.

We are living in an age more wonderful and more terrible than any in history.

We have created a means for perpetuation or destruction of mankind. We have conquered outer space but we have been unable to resolve our internal problems.

IN CONCLUDING his retrospect, Garvin wrote:

"Wars shall perish but while the world lasts never shall die the influence of these examples of heroism and energy, of sacrifice and fortitude, of long, stark endurance, tested unto the darkest hour and, when found faithful, then crowned by the radiance of achievement.

"From this the unceasing generations will draw strength for duties far other than that dread but sacred task which has been fulfilled through our hands. It is done."

It is an ennobling ideal and comforting thought for Memorial Day 1963.

Not By Bread Alone

By Raymond Moley

The wheat plebiscite should reveal in plain statistics to the Kennedy brothers that their general political strategy grossly misunderstands the character and spirit of the American people.

With their heads clear and with the cold facts before them, the farmers deliberately chose a course which, temporarily at least, means more arduous planning and less return for their product.

Not only did they reject the administration's program itself, but they registered their scorn and contempt for the vast propaganda effort directed at them by the administration and with the taxpayers' money.

The Kennedy-Freeman appeal asked them whether they would rather have $2 than $1. They answered, "A dollar, if necessary, with fredeom." The crass materialism of the appeal was apparently regarded as an affron' to the pride and independence o' Americans.

This remarkable vote has a lesson for all of us.

POLITICIANS for a long time have been operating according to what in high-brow circles is called economic determinism. For half a century it has dominated our history textbooks, our political literature, and the strategy of our political campaigns.

This philosophy, which was an adaptation of what Karl Marx wrote, would have us believe that the Constitution of the United States was written by a lot of people who wanted only to protect their property and that the Civil War was a conflict of two rival economic systems. It would also have us believe that political predictions can be based upon a calculation of voters' economic wants and necessities.

In 1952, noting that the Democratic campaign slogan was "You never had it so good," I wrote this:

"People are moved by many impulses other than those with roots in their stomachs and pocketbooks. Human beings are endowed with sentiments of idealism, loyalty and pride associated with their homes, their families, their communities, their friends, their ancestry, traditions, religion and their nation.

"These sentiments find expression in songs, stories, bits of folklore, associations and memories. These fill a large part of life. To evoke them is to give pleasure and to enrich.

"They make hardships endurable, mistakes tolerable, inconsistency understandable, and even failure bearable. Within them is the heart of political conservatism."

THAT IDEA came back to me when I saw and heard on television John F. Kennedy summing up his campaign in the Chicago Auditorium and the New York Coliseum in November, 1960. Pointing here and there, as if to address this and that special interest, he repeated his promises. He was, in effect, chopping the electorate into little pieces of specific wants.

The candidate mentioned more pay for the unemployed, medical care for the elderly, federal money for schools for the children and free college education for teen-agers, more pay for teachers, new plumbing for five million homes, help with the housewives' budgets, the admission of everybody to public housing "by the stroke of a pen," more income for the farmers, dignity and health for the retired (as if a political government could create dignity), and, finally, the back of his hand to members of Congress who would oppose him.

These melodramatic promises with gestures represented not only gross materialism but reckless disregard of means to their end.

The effect of this is to use on the federal level the methods so long common in Boston municipal life, where the brothers Kennedy learned their politics. There for years under Grandfather Fitzgerald and Michael Curley elections were won by handouts from the city treasury and the seemingly limitless resources of the bosses.

If you would know what is going on in Washington now, read if you have not, and reread if you have, Edwin O'Connor's "The Last Hurrah."

FINALLY, there is the issue of sincerity. After hearing those lush promises, we had a right to raise eyebrows when we heard at the Inauguration, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

On more than one occasion Mr. Kennedy has said or implied that these innumerable domestic programs he has sent to Congress are not really important to him.

The conclusion is inescapable that he prefers them as issues rather than legislative approval.

If they are enacted, they will provide liens on the recipients' gratitude. If they are not enacted, he can blame "reactionary" members of Congress or, in the present instance, the wheat farmers who refused the dole. But the farmers have given their answer. They prefer freedom.

Board Gets Regulations

Tightened State Rules Set For Voting By Absentees

Stricter regulations governing issuance of absentee and disabled voters' ballots will go into effect Saturday, the County Election Board was advised today by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Acting as Ohio's chief election officer, Brown issued a new set of regulations that he said is designed to prevent alleged "misuse" of applications for absentee voters' ballots.

All application forms must be numbered in serial sequence in the future and must show the date of the election for which they are issued, Brown said. When an application form is issued, the board must make a record of the name of the person who obtained it, along with the serial number, the secretary of state added.

When the application is returned, "the number shall be compared with the recorded number and the application shall not be accepted if it has been executed and returned by any person other than the person to whom it was issued," Brown said.

An application form may be issued if an elector applies in writing or calls personally at the board's office, Brown said. Or an application may be issued on a telephoned request if the board's staff "is satisfied that the person calling is the person he purports to be," Brown added.

Brown's new ruling forbids the board to issue more than one application to an individual "except in the event that an application form has been lost or destroyed."

When a second application form is issued, the number of the original shall be canceled and the form bearing that number shall not be accepted, Brown ruled. He added that the rules do not govern issuance of so-called "armed services ballots" for persons in the armed forces.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, said a record will be maintained in a bound volume showing the serial numbers of all application forms and the persons to whom they have been issued.

Brown pointed out in an accompanying letter that the secretary of state's office issued new regulations in 1937 to curb alleged misuse of absentee voters' applications. The rules eliminated most instances of abuse, but in recent years a few counties have not adhered to the regulations, he added.

"Misuse of application forms by persons who were given large numbers of them has occasionally resulted in fraudulent ballots," he said. "More often, absent and disabled voters have been deprived of their vote by the failure of application carriers to return the applications to the Election Board.

"The regulations now being issued are designed to insure that no fraudulent ballots will be cast and that no absent or disabled voter will be deprived of his vote."

Racial Flareup Mars Last Day At Ohio School

DOVER, Ohio (AP)—The last day of school at Sandy Valley High School was marred Wednesday by a brief scuffle between about 20 Negro and white students.

The incident was over by the time Tuscarawas County sheriff's deputies arrived at the school, and there were no serious injuries. This contrasted with a fight at the school Tuesday between about 10 white and 40 Negro students.

After the first fight, four white youths were sent to Aultman Hospital at Canton, about 10 miles north. Donald Poole, 17, of Magnolia, was to undergo surgery for his injuries.

One of the hospitalized youths told a reporter that Poole was knocked out in the fight at the rear of the school, was kicked and was cut in the arm with a homemade knife.

David Mugrage, 18, who was hospitalized with a concussion, said the fight stemmed from an incident in the hall when he and another youth were told by one of two approaching Negroes, "When you see me coming up the hall, move over and let me by."

W. T. Wartianen, the school's principal, denied there was a racial basis to the fight. However, this was disputed by deputies, by students and by parents of the injured boys.

The prosecutor is investigating the possibility of charges.

Chief Justice Irritated At Lawyers' Silence

Two Amendments Aimed At U.S. Supreme Court

Chief Justice Earl Warren has called for a great national debate on three proposed constitutional amendments. In this last of three articles, Associated Press staff writer Stanley Meisler discusses the two amendments aimed at Warren's Supreme Court.

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren has chided America's lawyers for their silence about three proposed constitutional amendments.

Warren's irritation is not surprising. Two of the amendments are aimed right at his court.

"For the bar of America to be as inactive as it has been in this situation," he said recently, "is almost an abdication of its responsibility to the public."

As head of the Supreme Court, Warren did not take a position on the amendments, but he clearly was concerned that, with little or no debate, 16 state legislatures had approved at least one of the three amendments.

If any amendment wins support from 34 states, Congress must call a national convention to accept or reject it.

The proposed amendments would:

1. Make it possible for the states to propose and ratify constituional amendments completely on their own.

2. Wipe out federal jurisdiction over the apportionment of seats in the state legislatures.

3. Make it possible for certain decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court to be overruled by a states-controlled "Court of the Union."

The first amendment generally would help the cause of states rights, but the other two, while also concerned with states rights, directly touch the heart of the Supreme Court.

The amendment about legislative apportionment, in fact, would reverse a historic decision of the court in March 1962.

In the decision, the court ruled that citizens could seek relief in federal courts when unequal representation of state legislatures violated their constitutional rights. This was a blow to many rural-dominated legislatures that had refused to reapportion themselves to meet population changes of the 20th century.

The proposed amendment would say, first, that no provision of the Constitution can restrict the apportionment of a state legislature, and, second, that the federal courts have no jurisdiction over any suit relating to the apportionment of state legislatures.

Speaker Robert D. Hasse of the Wisconsin House says that nothing short of this amendment can stop the federal government from interfering in reapportionment — which he considers a basic right of the states.

But Prof. Charles L. Black Jr. of Yale University Law School says "this proposal, if passed, would constitute the first diminution, since our history began, of any federal constitutional guarantee of liberty, justice or equality."

The board of governors of the American Bar Association, which

The board of governors of the American Bar Association, which opposes the other two amendments, has withheld action on this amendment.

The amendment has been proposed by the legislatures of 12 states: Arkansas, Idaho, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, Wyoming and — although its resolution is worded somewhat differently from the others — Utah.

South Carolina will make the total 13 as soon as it completes some minor details on its resolution. Nebraska would have made it 14 but Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison vetoed the proposal after the legislature voted for it.

The "Court of the Union" amendment is longer and somewhat more complicated than the others.

Under this proposal, a "Court of the Union" would be made up of the chief justices of the 50 states, but it would not be active all the time. The court would be convened upon request of the legislatures of any five states without a common boundary.

The Court of the Union would have only one function. It would decide whether a particular decision of the U.S. Supreme Court was constitutional.

But the Court of the Union would not have complete jurisdiction over Supreme Court decisions. The Court of the Union could rule only when the decision involved powers of the states or the people. If the Supreme Court made a ruling about war or foreign commerce or coining money or any other power reserved to the federal government, The Court of the Union could not decide whether the ruling was constitutional.

The agreement of 26 justices on the Court of the Union would be needed to reverse a decision of the Supreme Court.

Rep. Warren L. Wood of the Illinois House says this amendment represents the first and only attempt to do something about the drift of state power to Washington instead of just talking about it.

Wood says the amendment would help make the Constitution work as it did "when the United States grew to be the greatest nation on earth."

But Prof. Black says this amendment would destroy "the powerful and life-giving idea that our Constitution is law, and that its character as national law can only be upheld by giving its final interpretation into the hands of a national judiciary."

The American Bar Association's board of governors — too long silent in Chief Justice Warren's view — decided last week to announce its disapproval of this amendment because it was "inconsistent with the constitutional concept of our court system."

The amendment has been approved by four states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Wyoming. South Carolina will make it five as soon as it completes some minor details on its resolution.

U.S. Pressure Being Placed To Indonesia

TOKYO (AP)—Quietly but firmly, the United States began exerting pressure Wednesday on Indonesia's flamboyant President Sukarno.

A special emissary from President Kennedy met twice with vacationing Sukarno on Indonesia's plan to nationalize the multimillion-dollar investments of U.S. oil firms in the Southeast Asia island nation.

In the background was growing U.S. impatience with Sukarno's seeming inability to solve Indonesia's political and economic ills, despite about $100 million in U.S. aid annually, and his threats of international adventure that keep Southeast Asia in a turmoil.

Sukarno has threatened war if Malaya forms the Malaysian Federation with his close neighbors—Singapore, Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo. The U.S. State Department is on record as favoring the federation, saying it would enhance political stability of all Southeast Asia.

Sukarno confers here Friday with Malayan Premier Tunku Abdu Rahman.

An informed source said American negotiators have given Sukarno a stiff proposition on the oil issue, pointing out there is pressure in the United States for withdrawal of foreign aid from nations that indiscriminately nationalize American investments.

Indonesian officials were not available for comment.

American investors in the three firms threatened with nationalization-Shell gindonesia, Caltex, and Stanvac Indonesia — reportedly have demanded that Washington take stern action, pointing out the Clay report on foreign aid specifically criticizes Indonesia's wholesale nationalization of foreign investment.

The report was drawn up by a committee headed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

No Drastic Cuts Due For Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither heat nor hail nor budget cuts will keep the mailman from his appointed rounds.

The Post Office Department announced it will not have to go through with drastic reductions in deliveries now that a compromise budget has been worked out.

The compromise was hammered out by a Senate-House conference committee which restored 35 million of the $69 million the House had slashed from postal operating funds.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day hailed the agreement — still subject to Senate and House action—and said "We are pleased that the Congress has recognized the need for minimum funds to maintain the 175-year tradition of mail delivery to every American."

Play Helps Counteract Pressures

This is a pressure age. Tension mounts under pressure. You can't completely escape the pressure—no one goes scot-free. But you can counteract the tension with play.

Ida Jean Kain

Work on the principle of balancing emotion with motion. According to Mr. Heart himself, Dr. Paul Dudley White, when you get physically tired you do not have stress. Remember the wonderful feeling of release that comes after you've been physically active outdoors? There is nothing like it for restoring your feeling of well-being.

Could you add one game for grown-ups to your back yard? There are games that don't take up too much space. For example, a shuffle board court can be painted on a level, cement driveway. You can shuffle off tension fatigue this fun way.

A BADMINTON NET can be added to most any backyard, and two or four can bat the birdie. Rubber quoits can take the place of old time horsehoe pitching. How about rubber tipped darts and a target?

Physical exercise that's fun and freeing has a psychological impact. Recapture the joy of moving freely. This helps you alter a fundamental feeling about yourself. You can't feel old and awkward or bulky when you laugh and play. And there is no better way to keep circulation up and doing.

Traffic being what it is today, it's hard to get out and walk. . . if not downright dangerous. To restore normal energy it is imperative that we create other ways to exercise and release tensions.

Nothing subtracts from the joy of day-to-day living quite so completely as accumulated tensions. The feeling of not being able to let-go the tensions can be almost unbearable.

Play affords "re-creation" for the mind and the body. Play takes your mind off work-a-day cares. Letting go in your mind bids your muscles unwind. Using the muscles in fun activities lets you feel healthfully relaxed. Toned muscles, in turn, tell your mind that all is well. Being in the fresh air helps to promote sound sleep.

—:—

DON'T GET so carried away with the play idea that you overdo. With daylight saving, get out and play a little every night. Don't pack it all into the week-end. Overexercise on the week-end, or at any time, is dangerous.

Too tired to enjoy a play game? Ease into activity gradually. . . unwind. You'll finish feeling refreshed, and you'll have the time of your middle age life doing it.

Fine Things Recalled On Memorial Day

On Memorial Day we are reminded of our debt to those who lost their lives defending the liberties of our nation. We do special honor to them on this day and to the men and women in our armed forces now and to all other Americans willing and ready, if called upon, to serve in defense of our country. We also do special honor to those men and women who lost their lives, under our flag, defending the liberties of weaker nations and to all other men and women standing ready to do likewise if necessary.

Dr. Garry Meyers

We want our children to see how they can all help right now to make our nation great, by keeping themselves well and strong in body and mind and by trying to do well at home and school.

—:—

WE WANT OUR children to see that they help our nation to be stronger when they strive to do right but weaken our nation when they do what they know is wrong and that this rule applies to every person in our nation.

On Memorial Day we also do honor to those of our loved ones no longer living. If these loved ones passed away before our children were born, our honoring their memories should be wholesome for the children.

How fine, too, when our children recall with us precious memories of things they and we together remember — the happy times we had with them, their unselfish ways, strength of character and good good qualities.

Memorial Day is a good time to remind our children of such a precious heritage as theirs.

HOW FINE FOR us parents in the United States to read or recite together with our children on Memorial Day the preamble of the Constitution of the United States.

"We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: Here is a little experiment we have run on hard boiling eggs:

Many people have written in to say: never boil eggs, (that they should be slightly simmered) and never let them stand in the hot water after they have become hard-boiled as this toughens the white part of the egg.

I believe this is true.

Here's why:

We took six eggs. Put three each in two different pans of cold water. We brought these to a boil and after the water came to a rolling boil we turned the fire down so that the eggs would just simmer.

-:-

AFTER THE EGGS were finished cooking we took one pan, put it in the sink and turned the cold water faucet on, letting the water run over the eggs for about five minutes. (Eggs could be transferred to a pan of cold water and let stand.)

The eggs that had been rapidly boiled and left in the hot water had tough whites and were more difficult to peel.

We peeled the three eggs from each pan. There is no doubt about it — the white part of the hard boiled eggs which were immediately put under cold water were absolutely tender.

We also found out that if the eggs were well-cracked and held under the cold water faucet and peeled while still slightly warm that the shell removed beautifully without peeling part of the egg white off.

-:-

ANOTHER THING we found was that the shell nearly always stuck to a fresh egg, whereas with cold storage and older eggs this did not happen.

So, test this method yourself. Next time you boil two eggs put one in each pot and see what luck you come out with. I am sure you will be happy.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Clean sanitary mops can always be at our fingertips by having several detachable cloth heads so that one may be washed each week.

After washing and spinning them dry in the washing machine, lay all the cloth heads on a newspaper and sprinkle with a good polish. (I punch a hole in the cap of my furniture polish bottle with a mail.) I then roll them up tightly in the newspaper so as to distribute the oil among the cotton threads.

Later I hang them out-of-doors to dry thoroughly. This leaves no oily streaks on my floors and picks up all the dust.

PORTLAND.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: For the frayed ends on kids' shoestrings . . . take some cellophane tape and wind a piece tightly around the end of the frayed shoestring and twist it. It works like magic! Threads every time.

TRUDY B.

DEAR HELOISE: Once in a while you will have no nail polish remover in the house. Did you know that you can apply another coat of nail polish, leave it for a few seconds and wipe it with a piece of cotton or tissue and the nail polish will come off? Sure saves scraping and peeling the nails, eh?

LINDA.

DEAR HELOISE: I dry my throw-rugs on the grass on a hot sunny day. This prevents pin marks and they dry nice and evenly. They dry from both sides this way because the blades of the grass let air underneath the backing of the carpet.

CAROLYN WILSON.

DEAR HELOISE: When I fry chicken livers I simply score them gently with a knife two or three times . . . crosswise. This keeps the grease from popping.

DOROTHY COLLINS.

75 Ohio U. Students Protest Speaker Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 75 Ohio University students protested at the Statehouse Wednesday against a bill to ban subversive speakers from the campuses of state universities.

They carried placards such as "No Campus Iron Curtain" and "Down With House Bill 800."

Their demonstration apparently had little effect.

House Bill 800—the subversive speakers' bill—passed the house by a vote of 104-25. It now goes to the Senate.

Small hot chili peppers may be bought pickled in vinegar in jars.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: Here is a little experiment we have run on hard boiling eggs:

Many people have written in to say: never boil eggs, (that they should be slightly simmered) and never let them stand in the hot water after they have become hard-boiled as this toughens the white part of the egg.

I believe this is true.

Here's why:

We took six eggs. Put three each in two different pans of cold water. We brought these to a boil and after the water came to a rolling boil we turned the fire down so that the eggs would just simmer.

-:-

AFTER THE EGGS were finished cooking we took one pan, put it in the sink and turned the cold water faucet on, letting the water run over the eggs for about five minutes. (Eggs could be transferred to a pan of cold water and let stand.)

The eggs that had been rapidly boiled and left in the hot water had tough whites and were more difficult to peel.

We peeled the three eggs from each pan. There is no doubt about it — the white part of the hard boiled eggs which were immediately put under cold water were absolutely tender.

We also found out that if the eggs were well-cracked and held under the cold water faucet and peeled while still slightly warm that the shell removed beautifully without peeling part of the egg white off.

-:-

ANOTHER THING we found was that the shell nearly always stuck to a fresh egg, whereas with cold storage and older eggs this did not happen.

So, test this method yourself. Next time you boil two eggs put one in each pot and see what luck you come out with. I am sure you will be happy.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Clean sanitary mops can always be at our fingertips by having several detachable cloth heads so that one may be washed each week.

After washing and spinning them dry in the washing machine, lay all the cloth heads on a newspaper and sprinkle with a good polish. (I punch a hole in the cap of my furniture polish bottle with a mail.) I then roll them up tightly in the newspaper so as to distribute the oil among the cotton threads.

Later I hang them out-of-doors to dry thoroughly. This leaves no oily streaks on my floors and picks up all the dust.

PORTLAND.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: For the frayed ends on kids' shoestrings . . . take some cellophane tape and wind a piece tightly around the end of the frayed shoestring and twist it. It works like magic! Threads every time.

TRUDY B.

DEAR HELOISE: Once in a while you will have no nail polish remover in the house. Did you know that you can apply another coat of nail polish, leave it for a few seconds and wipe it with a piece of cotton or tissue and the nail polish will come off? Sure saves scraping and peeling the nails, eh?

LINDA.

DEAR HELOISE: I dry my throw-rugs on the grass on a hot sunny day. This prevents pin marks and they dry nice and evenly. They dry from both sides this way because the blades of the grass let air underneath the backing of the carpet.

CAROLYN WILSON.

DEAR HELOISE: When I fry chicken livers I simply score them gently with a knife two or three times . . . crosswise. This keeps the grease from popping.

DOROTHY COLLINS.

75 Ohio U. Students Protest Speaker Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 75 Ohio University students protested at the Statehouse Wednesday against a bill to ban subversive speakers from the campuses of state universities.

They carried placards such as "No Campus Iron Curtain" and "Down With House Bill 800."

Their demonstration apparently had little effect.

House Bill 800—the subversive speakers' bill—passed the house by a vote of 104-25. It now goes to the Senate.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The widow who lives next door is a woman in her 40s. She is pleasant but we never have said anything more than "Good morning" or "Good evening" to one another.

Our dining room window faces her bedroom window. Whenever my husband sees her bedroom light go on he rushes into the dining room and starts to play solitaire. The women never pulls her shades down. She would have to be blind not to see my husband facing her window, taking everything in.

I never have said a word to him about this because I don't want to make an issue of it. He is 73, and definitely over the hill so far as romance is concerned. I hope I have made myself clear. Any suggestions would be apppreciated. — OLD DUFFER'S WIFE.

-:-

Dear Wife: Don't just sit there like a clam with a broken hinge. Tell him you are wise and that you hope he is enjoying his second childhoood.

Busy Signal

Dear Ann: I'm not dictating this letter to my secretary because she is out to lunch. But I'm so burned up I can't wait until she returns, so please excuse the mistakes.

I've telephoned my wife 11 times this morning at 15-minute intervals. The line still is busy. This has happened to me before. Once I got so mad I sent her a telegram and told her to get off the telephone. On another occasion I asked the operator to cut in but she said her supervisor wouldn't let her cut in unless it was an emergency.

It told her it was an emergency, that somebody was going to get shot. It didn't work.

Tell me, Ann Landers, how can a person gabble on about clothes, recipes, kids, gossip and other trivia hour after hour after hour? Don't their mouths get dry? Don't their arms get tired from holding the receiver?

Will you help me pressure the telephone company into an automatic shutoff after 7 minutes? That's enough yakking for anybody. Thank you. — RUSS.

-:-

Dear Russ: Sorry, but you'll have to get help somewhere else. To some women the telephone is useful therapy. They are stuck at home with kids, diapers, housework, cooking and laundry. Yakking on the phone is the most fun they have.

Why don't you ask your wife to free the phone every hour on the hour for 10 minutes and then you'll be sure to get her.

Broken-Hearted Mom

Dear Ann: I'm a mother whose heart is breaking. I raised eight children. My seventh child — a girl 18 — has just run off and married a boy none of us cared for.

We believed she would get tired of him or see for herself that he was no good, so we let her spend as much time with him as she wanted. We even let her spend weekends at his home — at the invitation of his parents, of course.

My husband and I have a strong suspicion that our daughter ran off and married the boy because she is pregnant. We believe the whole mess is the fault of the boy's parents. They should have kept a closer watch. When I told off the boy's mother last week she slammed the receiver down in my ear.

Now the woman has poisoned our daughter's mind against us and she has cut us out of her life completely. What can we do? —MADE FOOLS OF.

Dear Fools: Take turns kicking yourselves for letting your daughter do as she pleased — and vow to do a better job with your other children.

It was your responsibility to guide the girl and to instill in her a sense of personal worth. Parents who allow a teen-age daughter to spend weekends at her boy friend's home and then blame his parents because they didn't keep an eye on them are looking for a scapegoat.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

House Votes To End Mexican Field Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Wednesday to end the 12-year-old program under which U. S. farmers have been importing Mexican field hands — a practice labeled slave labor by one congressman.

A 174-158 roll-call vote turned down a bill that would have extended the so-called "bracero" program until Dec. 31, 1965.

It was the sixth time an extension had been sought for the law enacted in 1951.

Judge Convicts Youth In Telephone Damage

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Wednesday found James Higgins, 19, of Rogers R. D. 1 guilty of a misdemeanor in the destruction of a pay telephone of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The value of the property destroyed determines if the act is a felony or a misdemeanor and the judge found by the evidence that $75 of equipment was destroyed, making it a misdemeanor.

Two other youths Richard A. Riley, 19, and James Banner, 19, both of Rogers, pleaded guilty and asked probation. Their counsel said he will ask court that their case be reduced to a misdemeanor so that they will not have a felony record.

Judge Buzzard deferred sentencing in the Higgins case, allowing the customary time to file for new trial.

Quota Hears Postmaster

Postmaster Sam Brown was guest speaker for the meeting of the Quota Club Tuesday night at the home of the president, Mrs. Sallie O'Hanlon, of Armstrong Ln.

Introduced by Mrs. Marie Hays, program chairman, he discussed postal regulations.

Mrs. O'Hanlon conducted brief business. Tentative plans were made for the 15th birthday anniversary dinner party to be held July 9 at the Country Club.

Refreshments were served 18 by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Horsely and Mrs. Hilda McEwen, associate hostesses. Mrs. Nellie McLain, past president, poured at the silver tea service. Mrs. Gladys Handley of England was a guest.

Next luncheon meeting is June 11 at the Travelers Hotel.

Power Networks Continue To Grow

By FRED B. STAUFFER
Herald Tribune News Service

NEW YORK — Power transmission lines, stretching across the nation from city to city and state to state, now form a growing network of interconnected electric systems providing energy for industry, farm and home on a scale unmatched anywhere else in the world.

The scope of this continuing development of electric power resources and distribution is illustrated by the so-called Interconnected Systems Group comprising some 120 private utilities and public power sources covering 1.5 million square miles in 39 states from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

THIS GROUP has combined electric generating capability of 146 million kilowatts.

The Interconnected Systems Group, already a large combination, was expanded greatly in 1962 by bringing in two other major networks. Originally this group covered the middle section of the nation from Canada to the Gulf and tied together lines of large and small utilities.

Major companies in the original lineup included such giants as Commonwealth Edison Co. at Chicago, Union Electric Co. at St. Louis, Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., Ohio Edison Co., the American Electric Power System (parent of Ohio Power Co.), Middle South Utilities and Southern Co. units.

Last year there was brought into this group the Canadian-United States Interconnection, and the Pennsylvania - New Jersey-Maryland Interconnected which now operate in parallel with the other grouping.

-:-

THE CANADIAN - U.S. group made available Niagara Falls power from Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and State of New York Power Authority sources as well as Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., Detroit Edison Co., Consumers Power Co., Consolidated Edison Co. and a host of New England companies.

Likewise, the Pennsylvania-New Jersey - Maryland group added big blocks of power to the interconnection, the major companies including Public Service Electric & Gas Co., Philadelphia Electric Co., Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. and the General Public Utilities Corp. combination of utilities.

Interconnection on this scale means that electrical energy is being handled on a "one-for-all, all-for-one" basis to meet varying industrial activity, seasonal or emergency demands in the affected areas.

The grouping east of the Rockies is the largest in the nation but interconnection also is a prominent feature elsewhere.

-:-

THE NORTHWEST Power Pool and Rocky Mountain Power Pool constitute important examples, along with the Pacific Southwestern Interconnected Systems Group and somewhat smaller combinations esewhere.

The nation now boasts some 350,000 miles of high - voltage transmission lines. By 1970, 100,000 miles of line are expected to be added.

Construction of these lines and related facilities is expected to cost a total of $8 billion for the private companies alone in the 1960-70 decade.

Systems providing 97 per cent of the nation's electric energy requirements now are included in the interconnected groups.

-:-

EVOLUTION OF these huge groups has been a gradual one, spurred by improved technology of electric transmission as well as rising demands for power. Perhaps the greatest single factor is the ability to move electric power economically over long distances at voltages unheard of until recently.

Early in the history of the industry 30,000 volts were a relatively high level. Up to 1920 the lines were limited to a maximum of 150,000 volts.

Now the nation's total includes about 3,000 miles of 345,000 volt lines, and some are operating as high as 460,000 volts.

South Side GOP Hears Nominees

Successful Beaver County primary election candidates, Arthur Pettibon, Charles Marshall, Stewart McConnell Jr., William Everhardt and Mrs. Evelyn Phyllis, thanked the South Side Republican Club for its support at a meeting Monday night at the South Side Elementary School at Hookstown.

The membership drive was discussed and some of the fair participation plans were completed. William Thompson of Hookstown R. D. and Carl Orndoff of Raccoon Township were accepted as new members.

Lunch was served by the social committee, headed by Mrs. Emma Crothers and Mrs. Peggy Dunn.

Next meeting is June 24 in Frankfort Springs.

Auditions Slated For Army Band

S.Sgt. Edward Vallor, local recruiter, pointed out many high school seniors complete their musical education upon graduation. "The Army, however, offers talented high school seniors the opportunity not only to continue their career but also to fulfill their military obligation. Band enlistments are for three years only."

Any youths interested may obtain information with Sgt. Vallor at the Post Office, who will make arrangements for the auditions.

Soil Group Approves 5 More County Farms

D. 5, 140 acres in Madison Township; Dwaine Hawkins, New Waterford, 197 acres in Unity Township, and Walter Boyd, Wellsville R. D. 1, 48 acres in Yellow Creek Township.

The small bones that make up the human spinal column are called vertebrae.

Lunch was served by the stewards.

A Sore Winner

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — John M. Jenkins thought he was the winner in a union - election bet, but after riding a mile in a bumpy wheelbarrow he's not so sure. Jenkins, campaign manager for the winning candidate, was pushed for the bet payoff by LeRoy Benish, manager of the losing candidate.

Wellsville Lodge Will Buy Hotel

Final details are being worked out for the purchase of the Hotel Wilk at Wellsville by the Sons of Italy Lodge. The hotel is owned by R. F. Wilk.

Pete Chefalo, president of the fraternal order, said Wednesday the lodge is contemplating making a change in the name when the purchase is completed.

The price was set at $30,000. The lodge moved into the bar section of the hotel Dec. 16, 1962.

The SOI will continue to operate the bar and diningrooms as a private club.

Chefalo said the SOI will continue to operate the remainder of the hotel on a regular basis.

No major changes are anticipated, although some general repairs will be made.

Wilk also has sold his home in Wellsville and now is residing at Hanoverton.

Chefalo said the organization also plans to hold a membership drive in the near future to include the entire Tri-State area, and for more activities, including youth work. The SOI is an international organization.

Salem Given 2 Weeks

LISBON — Salem Solicitor Thomas Coe was granted two weeks to file briefs at a hearing held Wednesday before Judge Joel H. Sharp on a mandamus action brought by the city of Salem against City Auditor Helen Coyne over the payment of $12,482 for parking meters.

Atty. John Bauknecht of East Palestine, counsel for Mrs. Coyne, may be given similar time to file briefs later, after which Judge Sharp may rule on the action.

Testimony ended at 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Skit Features Pack Meeting

An original skit, "Preview of the Lewisling Circus", presented by Den 6, featured the meeting of Cub Scout Pack 22 Tuesday night in the First Christian Church of Wellsville.

Participating were: Jeff Huston, Mark Bush, Mark Wright, Charles Lewis, Pat McNicol, Pat Broderick, Kim Lewis and Brian Kessel.

Mrs. Natalie Lewis' Den 6 also was in charge of the opening exercises. Brian Kessel led the flag salute. Pat Broderick led the cubs in the Scout Promise and laws of the pack.

Donald Hutchison was in charge of the presentation of awards to Jeff Kinzel, Mike Pelley, Robert Fickle, Mark Wright, Mark Bush, Charles Crews and Dale Bender.

Brief remarks and announcement that Pack 22 would march in the Memorial Day parade were made by Leroy Geisse, committeeman. Mrs. Eunice Huston was named pack treasurer. Den 6 was the banner den. The closing exercise included group singing of "America" and display tables featured "peep" boxes, world wonders and potato zoos reflecting the "circus" theme.

Mrs. Marjorie Kinzel's Den 3 served refreshments to 75 and Mrs. Flora Shaffer of Den 5 was hospitality chairman. Next meeting will be June 25 at Hammond Park.

Auto Overturns, Woman Unhurt

An East End woman apparently escaped injury when she lost control of her auto on Route 7 just north of the Columbiana County line early Wednesday morning, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Ruth Ann Bosworth, 25, of 1630 Pennsylvania Ave. was driving north when her 1959 coach veered off the highway and overturned down an embankment.

Officers said there was extensive damage to the auto.

John Feeley, 52, of Tarentum, reported to officers yesterday a piece of coal fell off a semi-trailer truck on Route 14 just west of Unity and struck the windshield of his car, breaking the glass.

Driver of the rig was identified as Ernest Cozza of Salem R.D. 2 officers said.

Ohio Power Aide Talks To Kiwanis

Generation and transmission of electrical power by the Ohio Power Co. and utilities in Ohio and six other states was discussed by William Williams, district manager of the Ohio Power Co., at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday.

About 40 attended the meeting at the Travelers Hotel at which Williams spoke of the steady increase in construction of power plants and enlargement of power line capacity to meet industrial and residential needs.

He said Ohio Power has enlarged the East Liverpool area power capacity to twice the present requirements because of the utility's belief in future development in the area.

Williams was introduced by Frank Irving. Alex Kidd was program chairman. Merrill Hall, president, was in charge.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The record onslaught should continue and a motor dynasty may tumble in the 47th Memorial Day 500-mile auto race Thursday as daring and skilled drivers roar off to nowhere before an estimated 250,000.

This merciless matching of men and machine—including four new breed cars—against the perils and pounding of 200 whirls around the mammoth Indianapolis Motor Speedway will pay off handsomely.

A record half-million-dollar total purse was envisioned in last minute estimates, which would make the top prize well above the $125,015 swap captured last year by Rodger Ward, only two-time winner still wheeling.

Ideal racing weather—partly cloudy and in the 70s—is forecast.

Much has been made of a promise of only one pit stop by two of the new challengers of the Offenhauser regime—the Lotus-Fords to be driven by the grand prix pair of Scotland's Jim Clark and Californian Dan Gurney.

The 23 Offys, including favored Parnelli Jones' pole position racer, usually need the pit stops for refueling and tire changes for the full 500-mile route.

But if the string of 16 successive wins by Offenhausers, the so-called invincible four-bangers, is to be shattered by the Lotus Fords, two Chevy-powered entries—also rear-engined jobs—or the three eight-cylindered Novis, the answer lies in today's moment of truth which stretches some 3½ roaring hours.

The qualifying runs are for only four of the 2½ mile laps and experimental runs are like morning workouts by thoroughbreds.

Once speedway owner Tony Hulman barks "Gentlemen, start your engines" at 11 a.m., EST, today, it's every man and every machine for himself and itself.

When Ward, the debonair dasher from Indianapolis, won with a record 140.293 miles an hour last year, his grease and oil-splattered Leader Card Offy was one of only 15 finishers—less than half of the 33-car starting field.

In 1961, only 12 cars were running as A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., one of four returning champs in today's field, got the checkered flag. Foyt's time was 139.130 m.p.h., the third straight year the 500 speed record was lowered.

In 1960, there were 17 surviving cars.

The most machine casualties in modern times came in 1946 when only seven cars finished. They also nearly ran out of cars in 1951 when Lee Wallard, in a tiny, all-purpose Belanger Special, led only eight finishers home.

If Ward, who scored his first 500 triumph in 1959, is superstitious he might ignore the fact this is his 13th speedway start.

However, the driver who should keep crossed fingers is Jones, the can't-miss driver who did miss in his two previous 500 starts. Jones has set the qualifying record for two successive years, this time averaging 151.153 m.p.h. in gusty winds.

Jones, 29, from Torrance, Calif., has consistently proved he can top anybody else on the speedway track, but his luck doesn't hold in the big race.

He led the 500 during his rookie year of 1961, had engine trouble and was awarded 12th place after finishing 192 laps. Last year, Jones led most of the race, but lost his brakes and wound up seventh.

The other former champions include one-time boy wonder Troy Ruttman, who won in 1952 at the age of 22, and 1960 winner Jim Rathmann.

The five rookies in the field are headed by Clark, the grand prix veteran who will start his Lotus-Ford in the second row, between Ward and Jim McElreath, a solid dark horse.

The other first-year drivers include 39-year-old Ab Miller, driving one of the Chevy-powered duo; Johnny Rutherford; Art Malone, and Bobby Unser.

Event Set Dec. 27-28

Teams Selected For 3rd Annual Midland Tourney

Three outstanding teams from Western Pennsylvania and one from the Ohio Valley will make up the star studded field in the third annual Midland Holiday Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Midland Leopard Boosters Club.

Sonny Migliore chairman of the tournament announced the event would be held Dec. 27-28 at the Midland High School gymnasium.

The schools include Aliquippa, runnerup for the WPIAL title last season, McKeesport, always a topnotch outfit in the Pittsburgh area, Martins Ferry, one of the top squads in the Ohio Valley and the host Midland team which gained the semi-finals of the WPIAL tournament last season before losing to Aliquippa.

Martins Ferry played in the tournament last year and was beaten by Midland in the championship game.

The three Pennsylvania teams have close connections. McKeesport, the Section 6 champ last year, was beaten in the WPIAL quarter finals by Aliquippa the same team which eliminated Midland.

Aliquippa and Midland both have five of the first eight players coming back from their strong 1962-63 teams, while Martins Ferry will have five of the first seven returning and Coach Neenie Campbell of McKeesport can count on four returning regulars.

Migliore announced that the visiting teams will be quartered at the new Willows Motel for the two days and also a tour of Crucible Steel Stainless Plant has been arranged.

A queen's contest, with two girls competing from each school, will be held this year.

Clemente Suspended, Fined $250

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Outfielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates drew a five-day suspension and a $250 fine by National League President Warren Giles Wednesday for jostling an umpire.

The incident occurred at Forbes Field Tuesday night after Clemente was called out on the tail end of a double play by first base umpire Bill Jackowski in the fifth inning.

In a heated argument, Clemente twice bumped Jackowski and was ordered out of the game.

Four - year - olds won the most money in harness racing in 1962. Pacer Henry T. Adio's earned $220,302 and trotter Duke Rodney won $206,113.

Kelso, a gelding, is the only horse to win the Jockey Club Gold Cup three times.

Fastest mile in harness racing in 1962 was the 1:57 victory for the pacer Coffee Break at Springfield, Ill.

Montgomery Has No-Hit Contest In Little League

The first no-hitter of the East Liverpool Little League season was chalked up Wednesday night by young Bill Montgomery who pitched Golden Star to its fifth straight victory.

Montgomery mowed down the Milliron lineup in a 4-0 victory. The youngster had nine strikeouts in pitching his "dream" game.

Strangely enough, Golden Star only collected one hit off the combined efforts of Marv Schell and Cunningham but the Dairymen crossed the plate four times, twice in the first inning and twice again in the second.

The only hit of the game was collected by Golden Star's Dean Horger, a nine-year-old.

In another Little League contest, Burbick's stopped Chester Legion 6-4 on a three-hit performance by Johnson who also was the hitting star with a double and single. Clutter and Clark also doubled for the winners.

Howell was the losing pitcher as his Chester teammates committed four errors behind him.

Boros, Fairfield Enter Cleveland Golf Tourney

CLEVELAND — Two recent tournament winners, Julius Boros and Don Fairfield, are among the latest entrants for the $110,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament to be played June 27-30 at the Beechmont Country Club. Boros captured the Colonial Invitation at Fort Worth. Fairfield won the Oklahoma City Open with a birdie on the 72nd hole to beat out the same Boros.

By a coincidence, this was the first victory in three years for both of them. Boros' last win had been in the same Forth Worth Colonial. Fairfield's last win was the 1960 St. Paul open.

Boros' win at Forth Worth and his second at Oklahoma City in successive weeks would suggest the 1952 U.S. Open champion is picking up his game for the big events coming up, including the 1963 U.S. Open and then, a week later, the $110,000 scramble in Cleveland. Even so, he remained true to form in one respect—he has never won a tournament before May 1 and he's been on the tour since 1951.

The stocky, swarthy Boros with the smooth swing and the casual air has been a leading contender, and a frequent winner, from the time he came from complete obscurity to win the U.S. Open in Dallas. Actually, he has played best under pressure, in the big ones. In the 12 National Opens he has finished among the top 10 no less than seven times.

Where Boros is thickly built, Fairfield is tall and thin, and he is also different in personality. Boros is quiet, lanky Don cheerfully bubbles along. Fairifield is a long hitter with a good finish touch on the greens. He has been on the pro tour since 1956 and although he has now won only three official P.G.A. tournaments he has managed to do very well with close finishes. Both in 1961 and in 1962 he won over $19,000 each year in official prize money.

Jockey Rides Winner On Second Time Out

The thrill of winning that first one which happens to jockeys, was experienced by C. Wayne Gee Wednesday at Waterford Park when he rode into the winner's circle the second time out. Gee had only ridden once, before he booted home Summerfield in the third race. Summerfield was an 8-1 shot and paid $19.40, $8 and $5.80.

H. Allen Jerkens paced New York's thoroughbred trainers with 94 winners in 1962.

WHY BUY RETREADS
HOBBS RETREADS, THAT IS
BECAUSE . . .
1. 80% of the cost of a new tire is in the tire body — 20% in the tread.
2. A good retread on a 1st line tire body is much safer and stronger than new low quality tires that are made cheap to sell cheap.
3. Uses only 1st grade, top quality rubber that gives as good or better mileage than 1st line new tires.
4. Retreads are safe — all commercial air lines and trucking companies depend on retreads to lower their operating costs — some of these tires are retreaded as many as 5 or 6 times.

By a coincidence, this was the first victory in three years for both of them. Boros' last win had been in the same Forth Worth Colonial. Fairfield's last win was the 1960 St. Paul open.

Boros' win at Forth Worth and his second at Oklahoma City in successive weeks would suggest the 1952 U.S. Open champion is picking up his game for the big events coming up, including the 1963 U.S. Open and then, a week later, the $110,000 scramble in Cleveland. Even so, he remained true to form in one respect—he has never won a tournament before May 1 and he's been on the tour since 1951.

The stocky, swarthy Boros with the smooth swing and the casual air has been a leading contender, and a frequent winner, from the time he came from complete obscurity to win the U.S. Open in Dallas. Actually, he has played best under pressure, in the big ones. In the 12 National Opens he has finished among the top 10 no less than seven times.

Where Boros is thickly built, Fairfield is tall and thin, and he is also different in personality. Boros is quiet, lanky Don cheerfully bubbles along. Fairifield is a long hitter with a good finish touch on the greens. He has been on the pro tour since 1956 and although he has now won only three official P.G.A. tournaments he has managed to do very well with close finishes. Both in 1961 and in 1962 he won over $19,000 each year in official prize money.

WHY BUY RETREADS
HOBBS RETREADS, THAT IS
BECAUSE . . .
1. 80% of the cost of a new tire is in the tire body — 20% in the tread.
2. A good retread on a 1st line tire body is much safer and stronger than new low quality tires that are made cheap to sell cheap.
3. Uses only 1st grade, top quality rubber that gives as good or better mileage than 1st line new tires.
4. Retreads are safe — all commercial air lines and trucking companies depend on retreads to lower their operating costs — some of these tires are retreaded as many as 5 or 6 times.

Didn't Make Many Double Plays

Tinker-To-Evers-To-Chance Don't Compare To Today's 'Double' Men

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe Ralph Houk is right. Maybe the New York Yankees have a "five-million-dollar infield" as Manager Houk proclaims.

Five million or 50 million, the Yankee foursome of Clete Boyer, Tony Kubek, Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone can never hope to match in glory and fame the fabled infield of the Chicago Cubs of nearly half a century ago.

Few, if any today can identify the third baseman (Harry Steinfeldt) of that Cub infield but hardly anyone hasn't heard of the famed double play combination of Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance.

And therein lies a great hoax, a gigantic piece of propaganda that transformed an ordinary double play combination into a legendary one.

They were good all right were Joe Tinker, Johnny Evers and Frank Chance. The Cubs would never have won four pennants in five years without them. But shortstop Tinker and second baseman Evers, as scrappy and as inventive as they were, couldn't come close to today's double play men. The art of making the double play has increased tremendously in technique and in speed of execution.

Franklin P. Adams, then a baseball writer on the New York Evening Mail, was the man who gave the Cubs' trio everlasting fame by writing eight unforgettable lines of verse.

"These are the saddest of possible words,

"Tinker to Evers to Chance.

"Trio of bear Cubs and fleeter than birds,

"Tinker to Evers to Chance.

"Ruthlessly pricking our gonfalon bubble,

"Making a Giant hitting into a double,

"Words that are heavy with nothing but trouble,

"Tinker to Evers to Chance."

The truth is the double play was not perpetrated by this trio any more than by less famous contemporaries. It only seems that way.

In the five years from 1906 through 1910, the trio accounted for no more than 54 double plays in 770 games.

Through 21 World Series games (1906-07-08-10), the Cubs executed 16 double plays. Either Tinker or Evers or Chance was involved in 14. However, not one double play was made by the Cubs in which all three — Tinker, Evers and Chance—were involved.

By way of comparison, Pittsburgh's double play combination of second baseman Bill Mazeroski and shortstop Dick Groat collaborated in 126 double plays last year.

Woods Paces Lawyers To 5-3 Victory

Bob Woods, hard hitting third baseman of the Lawyers nine, had a perfect four-for-four night at the plate and scored three runs in leading his team to a 5-3 victory over Central Service Wednesday night in the Colt League.

All four of Woods hits were singles as the Lawyers pounded out nine safeties. Bob Burkhart was the winning pitcher and gave up five hits. Blaine Clendenning was charged with the loss. Len Walker helped the Lawyer attack with two hits while Nick Marchbanks collected a pair of safeties for Central Service.

Central broke on top with two runs in the first inning but the league leading Lawyers bounced back strongly with a run in the second inning and three big markers in the third.

Tennis Star Will Marry

SURBITON, England (AP)—Darlene Hard, America's top-ranking female tennis star, said Wednesday night she is getting married and will retire from international tennis at the end of the season.

The 27-year-old California blonde made the announcement after defeating Pat Hird, Britain's former Wightman Cup player, 6-1, 6-2, in the Surrey grass court tournament.

"I am getting married to a nice guy called Fred Shockley who comes from my home town of Los Angeles," said Miss Hard. "So this will definitely be my last tour—and my last bid for Wimbledon."

Cooper Will Watch Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper will be in the huge throng watching the Memorial Day 500-mile race today.

Cooper, America's most recent and most travleed spaceman, will be the guest of former racing pilot Roscoe Turner, the aeronautics firm executive said Wednesday.

French Horse Leaves U.S. Entries Behind At Epsom

EPSOM, England (AP)—Relko, French-owned, trained and ridden favorite, captured the 184th running of the English derby Wednesday by six lengths—and left five American-owned horses floundering down the field.

Yves Saint-Martin, 21-year-old French champion jockey, kept Relko in a handy position for the winning strike over the 1½-mile turf course. A 5-1 shot, Relko was the first favorite to win the derby since 1957.

Saint-Martin let Relko have his head three furlongs out and his mount ran all other opposition into the ground.

Merchant Venturer, 18-1, owned by Sir Foster Robinson of England, came second and Ireland's Ragusa, 25-1, was third another three lengths back.

The best of the five American-owned entries was Corpora, who finished fifth in the 26-horse race. Corpora, owned by Robin Scully of Beatrice, Neb., was a 25-2 betting shot.

Relko, a bay colt by Tanerko out of Relance III, landed the first prize of $98,947 for Francois Dupre of Paris.

Relko's winning time over a course softened by rain was 2 minutes, 39.4 seconds — much slower than the record of 2:33.8 set by Mahmoud in 1936.

At one time it looked as though Iron Peg, owned by Capt. Harry Guggenheim of New York, would be in at the kill.

Guggenheim was trying to become the first man ever to win both the Kentucky and English derbies. Dark star won the Kentucky Derby for him in 1953.

A mile from home Iron Peg, a bay colt by Dark Star out of Hostage, took the lead and Harry Carr, the jockey of Queen Elizabeth, looked as though he might have a winner.

Iron Peg lost his advantage at the sharp turn of Tattenham corner. He faded rapidly after that.

Other American-owned colts who finished down the field were Deep Gulf, owned by John McShain of Barclay Stables, N.J.; Doudance, owned by Mrs. John F. C. Bryce of South Arlington, Va., and Credo, owned by Lawrence M. Gelb of New York and Stamford, Conn.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother, Elizabeth and Prince Phillip were among the crowd at the race. Millions watched it on television.

Doudance was 10th, Deep Gulf 12th, Credo 15th and Iron Peg 16th.

Woods Paces Lawyers To 5-3 Victory

Bob Woods, hard hitting third baseman of the Lawyers nine, had a perfect four-for-four night at the plate and scored three runs in leading his team to a 5-3 victory over Central Service Wednesday night in the Colt League.

All four of Woods hits were singles as the Lawyers pounded out nine safeties. Bob Burkhart was the winning pitcher and gave up five hits. Blaine Clendenning was charged with the loss. Len Walker helped the Lawyer attack with two hits while Nick Marchbanks collected a pair of safeties for Central Service.

Central broke on top with two runs in the first inning but the league leading Lawyers bounced back strongly with a run in the second inning and three big markers in the third.

Tennis Star Will Marry

SURBITON, England (AP)—Darlene Hard, America's top-ranking female tennis star, said Wednesday night she is getting married and will retire from international tennis at the end of the season.

The 27-year-old California blonde made the announcement after defeating Pat Hird, Britain's former Wightman Cup player, 6-1, 6-2, in the Surrey grass court tournament.

"I am getting married to a nice guy called Fred Shockley who comes from my home town of Los Angeles," said Miss Hard. "So this will definitely be my last tour—and my last bid for Wimbledon."

Cooper Will Watch Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper will be in the huge throng watching the Memorial Day 500-mile race today.

Cooper, America's most recent and most travleed spaceman, will be the guest of former racing pilot Roscoe Turner, the aeronautics firm executive said Wednesday.

French Horse Leaves U.S. Entries Behind At Epsom

EPSOM, England (AP)—Relko, French-owned, trained and ridden favorite, captured the 184th running of the English derby Wednesday by six lengths—and left five American-owned horses floundering down the field.

Yves Saint-Martin, 21-year-old French champion jockey, kept Relko in a handy position for the winning strike over the 1½-mile turf course. A 5-1 shot, Relko was the first favorite to win the derby since 1957.

Saint-Martin let Relko have his head three furlongs out and his mount ran all other opposition into the ground.

Merchant Venturer, 18-1, owned by Sir Foster Robinson of England, came second and Ireland's Ragusa, 25-1, was third another three lengths back.

The best of the five American-owned entries was Corpora, who finished fifth in the 26-horse race. Corpora, owned by Robin Scully of Beatrice, Neb., was a 25-2 betting shot.

Relko, a bay colt by Tanerko out of Relance III, landed the first prize of $98,947 for Francois Dupre of Paris.

Relko's winning time over a course softened by rain was 2 minutes, 39.4 seconds — much slower than the record of 2:33.8 set by Mahmoud in 1936.

At one time it looked as though Iron Peg, owned by Capt. Harry Guggenheim of New York, would be in at the kill.

Guggenheim was trying to become the first man ever to win both the Kentucky and English derbies. Dark star won the Kentucky Derby for him in 1953.

A mile from home Iron Peg, a bay colt by Dark Star out of Hostage, took the lead and Harry Carr, the jockey of Queen Elizabeth, looked as though he might have a winner.

Iron Peg lost his advantage at the sharp turn of Tattenham corner. He faded rapidly after that.

Other American-owned colts who finished down the field were Deep Gulf, owned by John McShain of Barclay Stables, N.J.; Doudance, owned by Mrs. John F. C. Bryce of South Arlington, Va., and Credo, owned by Lawrence M. Gelb of New York and Stamford, Conn.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother, Elizabeth and Prince Phillip were among the crowd at the race. Millions watched it on television.

Doudance was 10th, Deep Gulf 12th, Credo 15th and Iron Peg 16th.

The late frost damage to fruit trees, grapes, strawberries, early planted corn and tomatoes and many other farm crops means we are going to have to do without such homegrown items that cannot be replanted.

Corn and tomatoes, of course, can be replanted and a full crop will come along even if a few days late.

Have you noticed dogwood blooms are few, if any. Hickory, butternut, walnuts, swamp ash, sumac and many food-bearing trees and plants look as if they were sprayed with chemicals.

The nut crop will be scarce, so birds and animals will miss some of their biggest items of food. I don't know about acorns, but no doubt beech nuts also will be missing.

—:—

MAYBE YOU have noticed the dead ornamental shrubs in many yards and that the new growth on spruce trees is dying. I don't think the tree will be killed, but it won't get any bigger this year. These are just a few things I have observed.

Fish moved into deep water and fishing in general has been poor. Not only that, but many fishermen stayed home waiting for warmer weather. An army of bow fishermen went after carp at Guilford, but their activities in the weeds and bullrushes were limited to about one warm day.

Wilfred Battin, now living at Guilford, says he has bought a hunting and fishing license ever since they came into existence.

He admits he has not always hunted or fished each year, but he reminds me that he never has had a license check by a game protector in all his life. I won't be checking his either, since I have never seen him with a pole in his hand or a gun in the field.

I have received some needed help in my dove-banding program from John McCord, an eighth - grade student at Summitville.

John has been searching the spruce and pine trees so numerous in Summitville and has located many nesting doves. Some other people called me, but I was ill for two weeks and didn't get around to making some of the contacts provided. Nestling doves should be banded when about five days old, just before they feather out too much.

IT WON'T BE long now before I will make my last fishing license check. I don't remember the first one I ever made after becoming a game protector, but I am going to make a special note of the last one. I'll know next week the exact date this event will take place.

This is of no importance maybe to other people, but will be a big event in my life. I have no idea who will replace me, but I will say if I can give him any advice after 26 years experience or offer any assistance I'll be happy to do so. Otherwise I'll be just as contented forgetting entirely about the job and let him learn the hard way like I did.

There were no training schools when I began working and no one handy to help me get started. They just gave me a law book and said, "Hop to it!"

Weese, Wells Set Pace In Women's Golfing Event

Mrs. Gordon Weese shot low gross of 47-46-93 while Mrs. J. M. Wells Jr. had 24 points to cop low net in Tuesday's par-birdie-eagle contest for women at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Putting in the first division went to Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Wells with 30 each.

In the second division, Mrs. W. J. Horger fired low gross of 59 and Mrs. Richard Heddleston scored 10 points to capture low net.

Mrs. H. F. Banfield with 18 putts won that event.

Lisbon Water Break Repairs Completed

LISBON — Repairs have been completed to a second water break and village officials now hope it will not be necessary to delay paving on the two streets, as both have settled.

The street heaved after a break in an old line Monday on W. Washington St. between Blocksom and Graham Sts. The section was reopened to traffic Tuesday after repairs.

New blacktop was completed Wednesday on a section of N. Market St. where a break April 20 caused settling of the pavement. It had been barricaded to traffic.

Midland Police Seek Man In Stabbing Case

Midland police are seeking a borough man whom James Bridges, 33, of 405 Midland Ave. reported stabbed him Tuesday in a Beaver Ave. home.

Bridges, released Wednesday from City Hospital with a stab wound of the left shoulder, said the suspect used a knife on him, according to officers.

Area Autoist Fined, Jailed

A 26-year-old Glenmoor man, charged with leaving the scene of an accident last week near Glenmoor, was fined a total of $115 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in jail and given an indefinite license suspension Wednesday night by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine.

Lawrence M. Barborak was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident and fined $15 and costs for driving left of center.

Judge Arfman said the convictions brought to 16 the total points on traffic charges Barborak has accumulated under the state point system. A year's suspension is automatic after 12 points.

He was taken into custody by the Ohio Hihway Patrol at Lisbon on a tip provided by a resident who read a report of the accident and probable damage to the car involved in a story in The Review.

Officers said the car hit a hedge of a home along Route 267 tore out two pine trees and shrub and demolished the front end of a 1956 auto owned by Warren Rogers.

Judge Arfman said Barborak had eight points on his record before he was brought into court last night.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

The late frost damage to fruit trees, grapes, strawberries, early planted corn and tomatoes and many other farm crops means we are going to have to do without such homegrown items that cannot be replanted.

Corn and tomatoes, of course, can be replanted and a full crop will come along even if a few days late.

Have you noticed dogwood blooms are few, if any. Hickory, butternut, walnuts, swamp ash, sumac and many food-bearing trees and plants look as if they were sprayed with chemicals.

The nut crop will be scarce, so birds and animals will miss some of their biggest items of food. I don't know about acorns, but no doubt beech nuts also will be missing.

—:—

MAYBE YOU have noticed the dead ornamental shrubs in many yards and that the new growth on spruce trees is dying. I don't think the tree will be killed, but it won't get any bigger this year. These are just a few things I have observed.

Fish moved into deep water and fishing in general has been poor. Not only that, but many fishermen stayed home waiting for warmer weather. An army of bow fishermen went after carp at Guilford, but their activities in the weeds and bullrushes were limited to about one warm day.

Wilfred Battin, now living at Guilford, says he has bought a hunting and fishing license ever since they came into existence.

He admits he has not always hunted or fished each year, but he reminds me that he never has had a license check by a game protector in all his life. I won't be checking his either, since I have never seen him with a pole in his hand or a gun in the field.

I have received some needed help in my dove-banding program from John McCord, an eighth - grade student at Summitville.

John has been searching the spruce and pine trees so numerous in Summitville and has located many nesting doves. Some other people called me, but I was ill for two weeks and didn't get around to making some of the contacts provided. Nestling doves should be banded when about five days old, just before they feather out too much.

IT WON'T BE long now before I will make my last fishing license check. I don't remember the first one I ever made after becoming a game protector, but I am going to make a special note of the last one. I'll know next week the exact date this event will take place.

This is of no importance maybe to other people, but will be a big event in my life. I have no idea who will replace me, but I will say if I can give him any advice after 26 years experience or offer any assistance I'll be happy to do so. Otherwise I'll be just as contented forgetting entirely about the job and let him learn the hard way like I did.

There were no training schools when I began working and no one handy to help me get started. They just gave me a law book and said, "Hop to it!"

Weese, Wells Set Pace In Women's Golfing Event

Mrs. Gordon Weese shot low gross of 47-46-93 while Mrs. J. M. Wells Jr. had 24 points to cop low net in Tuesday's par-birdie-eagle contest for women at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Putting in the first division went to Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Wells with 30 each.

In the second division, Mrs. W. J. Horger fired low gross of 59 and Mrs. Richard Heddleston scored 10 points to capture low net.

Mrs. H. F. Banfield with 18 putts won that event.

Lisbon Water Break Repairs Completed

LISBON — Repairs have been completed to a second water break and village officials now hope it will not be necessary to delay paving on the two streets, as both have settled.

The street heaved after a break in an old line Monday on W. Washington St. between Blocksom and Graham Sts. The section was reopened to traffic Tuesday after repairs.

New blacktop was completed Wednesday on a section of N. Market St. where a break April 20 caused settling of the pavement. It had been barricaded to traffic.

Midland Police Seek Man In Stabbing Case

Midland police are seeking a borough man whom James Bridges, 33, of 405 Midland Ave. reported stabbed him Tuesday in a Beaver Ave. home.

Bridges, released Wednesday from City Hospital with a stab wound of the left shoulder, said the suspect used a knife on him, according to officers.

United Electronics, Inc., of East Liverpool, is named defendant in a suit for $170,000 filed Wednesday in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Mary F. Rodgers of East Palestine, administratrix of the estate of her late husband, William E. Rodgers.

Mrs. Rodgers asks $20,000 for personal injuries and $150,000 for depriving the family of his wages and services. There are six children 6 to 15 years of age.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

A Bright, Tough Man

There always has been something of the cloth about Newton F. Minow. Perhaps he buys his ties and eye classes at a clerical supply shop or perfects his platform style by atending night classes at the parish house.

Alan Gill

In any case, the departing FCC chairman, a believer in electronic original sin, is a man of evangelical zeal. As he deserts his bishopric and looks back on his months in the New Frontier mission, TV, I believe he can feel light of conscience and pure of heart.

-:-

THE MAN'S main accomplishment was, not surprisingly, in the realm of oratory; and this is said in congratulation, not disparagement.

At the conclusion of his final sermon to the National Association of Broadcasters on April 2, Minow spoke typically (meaning: forcefully) of the challenge of the television medium to the network bosses:

"Certainly, make us laugh, but also help us comprehend. Of course, sing us to sleep, but also course, sing us to sleep, but alwo waken us to the awesome dangers of our time. Surely, divert us with mysteries, but also help us unlock the mysteries of our universe.

"Above all, heed the wisdom of Judge Learned Hand who once penetrated the heart of the meaning of liberty when he wrote: 'By enlightenment men gain insight into their own being, and that is what frees them.' "

MINOW CALLED TV entertainment a "vast wasteland" and confessed that his own office is "a vast and sometimes dark forest where we seven FCC hunters often are required to spend weeks of our time shooting down mosquitoes with elephant guns."

The fellow always has been blessed with a hell-fire literary style, a natural bent for publicity, and a conviction that education is the answer to everything — qualifications that should help him get along in his new job at Encyclopaedia Britannica.

What, though, did he accomplish at the FCC? Minnow was a booster of international TV via communications satellite; and during his reign, we had our first live telecasts lobbed across the ocean.

He smiled benevolently upon educational TV and saw it take its first tentative steps.

He has been a bit tough on wayward broadcasters; in his time a number of licenses were revoked, denied a renewal or renewed only on a short-term basis.

-:-

HE ENCOURAGED boldness in commentary and supported the networks in their more controversial moments ("Biography of a Bookie Joint," "Battle of Newburgh," "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon").

More importantly, he urged that legislation be passed obliging TV set manufacturers to widen the TV spectrum from 12 channels to 82. The law went through last year, thereby increasing the opportunities of classroom TV, an educational network, pay television and local community stations.

When it came to the peddling of more serious programming to the three existing networks, Minow made a good deal of noise; but his victories, it appears, were temporary ones.

Most of the regular documentary shows (his pets) are closing shop at the end of this season, though the networks promise a good many more news specials in the fall, along with a greater effort in the dinner-time newscasts.

-:-

OF HIS THREE other pets — the networks' high-domed children's programs — two have been given notice and the third is being trimmed from five times a week to one.

For awhile there, Newton Minow's rhetoric had the networks scared. It also wakened the public to the importance of this electronic phenomenon that was "singing us to sleep" all the evening long.

Minow, really, did nothing more than start a three-cornered discussion going among the government, the broadcasters, and the public. That, however, was a sizeable triumph, and for it he will be remembered.

-:-

HIS SUCCESSOR, E. William Henry, is known as a straight-talking fellow of the Minow school.

The president of CBS, Dr. Frank Stanton, said about Henry that "you have to give him marks for intelligence." And: "I would prefer a bright, tough man against me than a bureaucratic hack on my side.

The sound of elephant guns will continue to be heard in the vicinity of the dark forest.

Season's Final Meeting Held By BPW's Executive Board

Routine business was concluded at the final meeting for the season by the Executive Board of the Business & Professional Women's Club Tuesday night in the conference room of The Review.

Mrs. Helen Moore, president, presided, and announced she and Mrs. Doris McKinnon, incoming president, will attend the final presidents' meeting for District 8 Sunday at the Smucker House in Salem.

Mrs. Nessie Dunlop reported on the recent stage convention at Columbus. The sponsoring citation, for organizing the Lisbon club, was displayed.

The group decided to invite the five scholarship winners from the district schools to the next dinner meeting.

Mrs. McKinnon took reservations for the installation and initiation dinner meeting of the Lisbon club Wednesday.

Miss Roberta Pennybaker, a member of the public relations committee, presented the retiring president with a scrapbook she compiled. Mrs. Moore thanked the group for co-operation during her term.

Installation of officers will be held at the meeting June 12 at the Travelers Hotel. Mrs. Dunlop, chairman, and the civic participation committee, will have charge of arrangements. Mrs. Mary McCullough will be installing officer. Mrs. Betty Reed will present the program.

Mrs. Wilma Mason will handle decorations and the retiring board, the reservations.

Record Of War Vets In Ohio On Microfilm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Records of the state's veterans of all wars since the American Revolution have been microfilmed, and copies can be made in 10 seconds, the Ohio Division of Soldiers' Claims says.

Much of the filming was done through arrangements with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), which uses such records in helping its members trace family history for religious reasons.

Division officials believe Ohio's military claims office is the first, and apparently the only, one in the nation to completely microfilm its records.

ISLANDS

QUESTION: How do islands rise out of the sea and animals come to live on them?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Many islands are created by volcanoes which through successive underwater eruptions (1, 2, 3) make a broad base under the surface and finally break through (4) creating an island where there has been none before (5). Soil is created on the island by erosion so that plant seeds brought by birds or other means take growth, and these would help to make still more soil. In this way many of the South Seas islands (6) were formed. The insects on such islands were probably blown there by the wind and the few wild animals may have arrived on floating masses of vegetation. In many cases islands of this kind have later submerged; then coral begins to grow in a ring around the summit and continues until the ring appears above water, forming the circular kind of island called an atoll. It is thought that the islands of the Southwest Pacific (Melanesia) represent the remants of an ancient continent which has sunk below the water. Life of a South Sea island is easy-going; coconuts provide good food and a delicious drink and there are many shell fish and real fish to be caught with little effort.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: The coconut is obviously too heavy a seed to be blown through the air, so how does this valuable tree make its way from island to island? Make a guess. Give up? The fruit floats and waves toss them onto land, where the plants quickly root and grow.

4-H News

The 18th annual 4-H Junior Leadership Camp will be held at Camp Ohio, near Utica in Licking County, June 10-15 and each county has the opportunity to send one older boy and girl as delegates, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

Charlene McKarns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McKarns of Hanoverton R. D. 1, and Don Rsischkorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Frischkorn of Wellsville R. D. 1, will be Columbiana County representatives.

Miss Donna Denny of Salem R. D. 2, has been selected to serve as a cabin counselor and working with camp groups. Miss Denny was a county delegate last year. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Denny.

The purpose of the camp is to develop leadership abilities and skills, provide leadership opportunities, exchange ideas, meet new friends and gain ideas and skills to take back to their local clubs, Myers said.

Registrations are being taken for the Columbiana County 4-H junior camps. There will be two camps in 1963 instead of one. The camps will be divided in age groups with the 10-11-year-olds camping June 16-19 and the 12-14-year olds June 19-22, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

Several new crafts are being introduced with each camp program planned for the particular age group. Swimming, campfire fun, and special outdoor activities are included in the program.

Registrations, along with the camp fee of $10, must be in the county extension office by June 6. The fee covers all meals, lodging and insurance, Myers said.

Twenty-four attended a meeting of the Dusty Ridge 4-H Club of Georgetown Tuesday with Mrs. William Culley.

Members reported on projects. The club is selling napkins as a fund-raising project.

There will be no 4-H camp this year for the club. Next meeting is June 18 at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Culley.

Any member 12 or older interested in playing in the Columbiana County 4-H Band may attend tryouts tonight at the Lisbon Grange hall, west of Lisbon.

Brass players are to be present at 7 and woodwinds at 8. First rehearsal will be held June 13.

The final date for joining will be June 20, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

The band, which is seeking playing dates at homecomings, will play on Youth Day at the County Fair Aug. 22. William Justice of Columbiana will be director. He is an alumnus of the band.

Details about the band are available at the county extension office at Lisbon.

Eleven counselors for the Columbiana County 4-H Camp will attend a meeting Saturday and Sunday at Leesville Lake to go over plans for the sessions in June.

Speakers for the two - day affair will include Russell Smith, Northeast Ohio 4-H Club supervisor; Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture, and Tom Rudebock, assistant County 4-H Agent.

Attending will be Ronald Sanor, Allen Knizat, Brenda Wilhelm, Lois Whinnery and Doris Vincent of Salem; Sandra Glass and Don Frischkorn of Wellsville; Don Stonemetz, Ramon Hahn and Elaine Hahn of Homeworth and Linda Converse of Leetonia.

The Gaverstown Valley 4-H Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Ewing of the Salineville Rd., advisor.

Charlene Lee, vice president, presided and Mrs. Lloyd Sharp, assistant advisor, led opening prayer.

Plans were made for a roller skating party Friday evening at 7 with those attending to meet at the Township House of Gavers.

A demonstration of how to make a walnut - apple sauce cake, used later for the refreshments, was given by Susie Jeffrees and Charlene Lee.

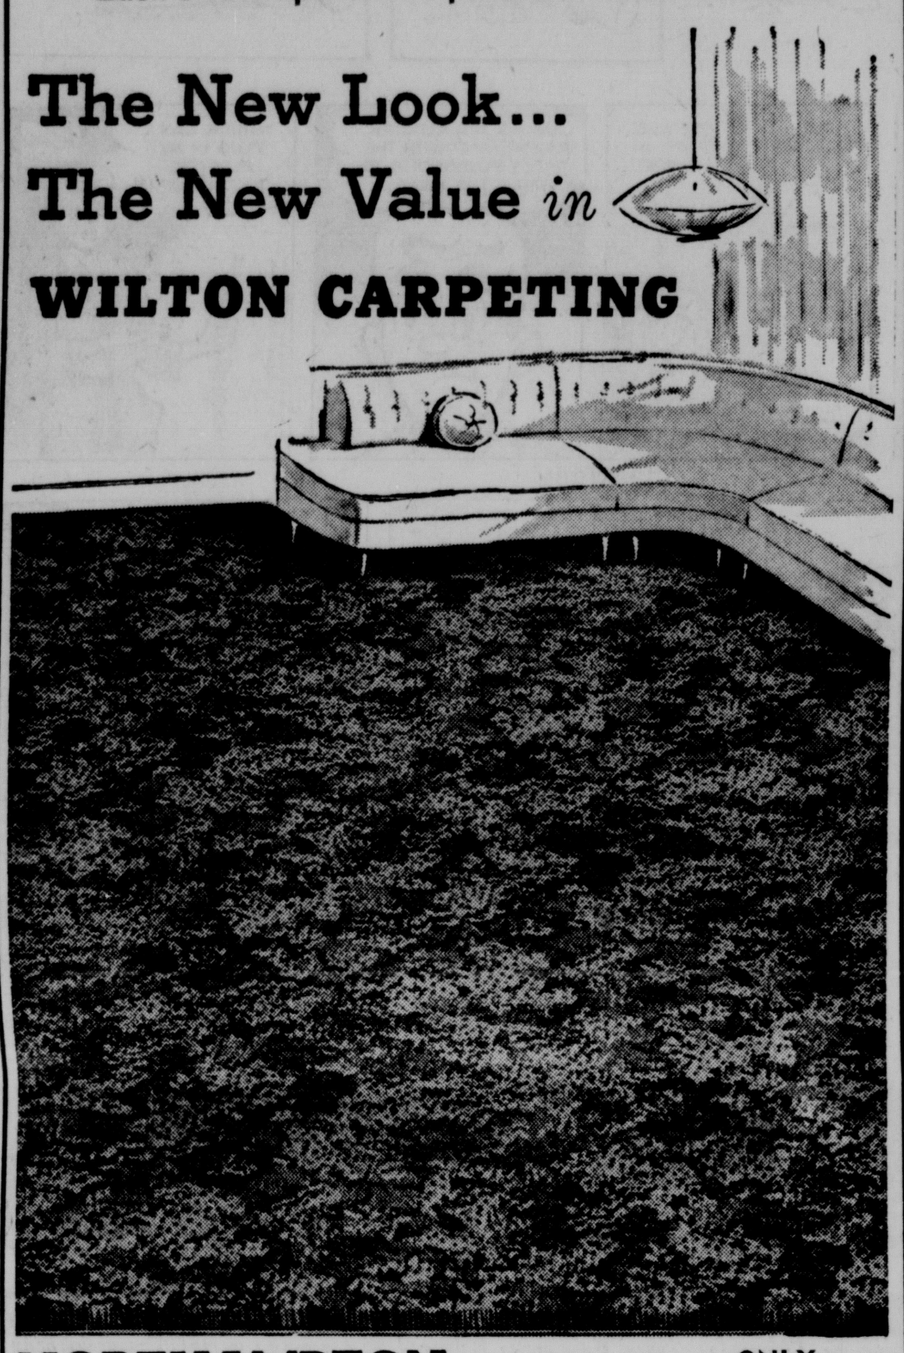

The meeting closed with the 4-H pledge.

The club will meet June 11 with Mrs. Ewing.

4-H News

The 18th annual 4-H Junior Leadership Camp will be held at Camp Ohio, near Utica in Licking County, June 10-15 and each county has the opportunity to send one older boy and girl as delegates, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

Charlene McKarns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McKarns of Hanoverton R. D. 1, and Don Rsischkorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Frischkorn of Wellsville R. D. 1, will be Columbiana County representatives.

Miss Donna Denny of Salem R. D. 2, has been selected to serve as a cabin counselor and working with camp groups. Miss Denny was a county delegate last year. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Denny.

The purpose of the camp is to develop leadership abilities and skills, provide leadership opportunities, exchange ideas, meet new friends and gain ideas and skills to take back to their local clubs, Myers said.

Registrations are being taken for the Columbiana County 4-H junior camps. There will be two camps in 1963 instead of one. The camps will be divided in age groups with the 10-11-year-olds camping June 16-19 and the 12-14-year olds June 19-22, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

Several new crafts are being introduced with each camp program planned for the particular age group. Swimming, campfire fun, and special outdoor activities are included in the program.

Registrations, along with the camp fee of $10, must be in the county extension office by June 6. The fee covers all meals, lodging and insurance, Myers said.

Twenty-four attended a meeting of the Dusty Ridge 4-H Club of Georgetown Tuesday with Mrs. William Culley.

Members reported on projects. The club is selling napkins as a fund-raising project.

There will be no 4-H camp this year for the club. Next meeting is June 18 at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. Culley.

Any member 12 or older interested in playing in the Columbiana County 4-H Band may attend tryouts tonight at the Lisbon Grange hall, west of Lisbon.

Brass players are to be present at 7 and woodwinds at 8. First rehearsal will be held June 13.

The final date for joining will be June 20, according to Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture.

The band, which is seeking playing dates at homecomings, will play on Youth Day at the County Fair Aug. 22. William Justice of Columbiana will be director. He is an alumnus of the band.

Details about the band are available at the county extension office at Lisbon.

Eleven counselors for the Columbiana County 4-H Camp will attend a meeting Saturday and Sunday at Leesville Lake to go over plans for the sessions in June.

Speakers for the two - day affair will include Russell Smith, Northeast Ohio 4-H Club supervisor; Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture, and Tom Rudebock, assistant County 4-H Agent.

Attending will be Ronald Sanor, Allen Knizat, Brenda Wilhelm, Lois Whinnery and Doris Vincent of Salem; Sandra Glass and Don Frischkorn of Wellsville; Don Stonemetz, Ramon Hahn and Elaine Hahn of Homeworth and Linda Converse of Leetonia.

The Gaverstown Valley 4-H Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Ewing of the Salineville Rd., advisor.

Charlene Lee, vice president, presided and Mrs. Lloyd Sharp, assistant advisor, led opening prayer.

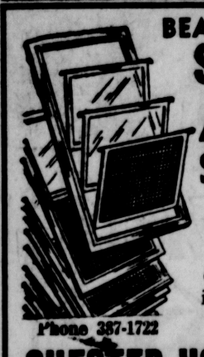

Plans were made for a roller skating party Friday evening at 7 with those attending to meet at the Township House of Gavers.

A demonstration of how to make a walnut - apple sauce cake, used later for the refreshments, was given by Susie Jeffrees and Charlene Lee.

The meeting closed with the 4-H pledge.

The club will meet June 11 with Mrs. Ewing.
